PROPOSAL MADE TO PARLEY BY CHINA

Presented Regarding Her Future Stand in the Far East to Arms Limitation Conference

FIRST SECRET SESSION HELD

Far Eastern Questions Sole Topic of Discussion—United States to Reveal Its Views

(By United Press)

Washington, Nov. 16.—China today offered a proposal on her future stand in the Far East to the arms limitation conference.

The proposal was presented by the Chinese delegation at the secret meeting of the conference sitting as a committee on the Far Eastern questions in the Pan-American Union Building here.

The conference entered into the intricate questions of the Pacific and Far Eastern problems. Far Eastern questions were to be almost the sole topic of discussion today, it was stated, with indication the United States will in the near future reveal officially its views on these problems.

For the first time the conference met in a guarded secret session. Shortly after 11 a. m. Secretary Hughes, chairman of the committee on Far East and Pacific questions called the conference to order. The entire membership of the conference was on hand. The doors were shut to the public. Newspaper men were forbidden to question delegates as they entered or left the committee session.

The Japanese group was the first to enter. Swift United States armed motor trucks brought them to the building and deposited them at the foot of a stairway where they quickly disappeared. Premier Briand rode up in a huge French car.

Land disarmament—heretofore submerged by the vaster problem of naval limitation—is destined to play an important and perhaps a troublesome part in the arms parley.

A clash between British and French viewpoints is in the cards.

America was said to be able to smooth out the clouds. Otherwise a storm is likely.

France wants to keep her army of 800,000; England wants the arm

FARMER'S BODY IS FOUND ON A GATE

Elijah A. Billings, 62, Stricken While in Act of Climbing it Tuesday Afternoon

HAD BEEN DEAD TWO HOURS

Elijah A. Billings, a well known farmer of Union township, who for the past two years had been residing in Rushville at 1010 North Main street, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at his farm, where his body was found about four o'clock, death being caused from heart trouble.

Mr. Billings was 62 years old and was born and reared in Union township. He went to his farm yesterday afternoon to hunt. He had just killed a rabbit, and was in the act of climbing over a gate when he was stricken, and his body was found suspended on the gate. He had probably been dead since two o'clock, Dr. W. E. Barnum, coroner, stated.

The remains were brought to his home in Rushville, and the funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Main Street Christian church in charge of the Rev. W. A. Young, assisted by the Rev. L. E. Brown. The deceased was a member of the Plum Creek Christian church, and had held his membership in that church since 1879. Friends may call at the late residence any time up until one o'clock Thursday.

The deceased leaves a widow and one son, George Billings of Union township. Two brothers, Francis and William of Howard county, a sister, Mrs. Jane Mauler of Marion, and a half sister, Mrs. Pearl Smith of Kokomo, also survives.

FIRST MEETING A SUCCESS

Leaguers Go to Milroy Tonight For "Win My Chum" Week Program

The first meeting of the "Win-My-Chum" week of the St. Paul's M. E. Epworth League, was well attended Tuesday night and a very profitable meeting was enjoyed. Mrs. Smith gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Looking." The Misses Vivian Harris, cornetist, and Gladys Titsworth, violinist, rendered a beautiful duet, being accompanied on the piano by Miss Frances Lyons.

The league will go to Milroy tonight to put on the program for the Epworth League of the M. E. church there. All the members are urged to go and are requested to meet at the Scanlan Hotel in South Main street by 6:45 o'clock, where ways will be provided to take them to Milroy. Milroy will come here Thursday night to put on the program.

TWO OBJECTIONS TO U. S. PROGRAM

Opposition to Large Submarine Navies and Reluctance to Close Naval Yards

THIRD BEING PROMULGATED

Japan Believed to be Against Forty Percent Inferiority Allotted To Her Navy

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for United Press)

Opposition to large submarine navies and a reluctance to close down naval construction yards are the only concrete objections that have been made to the American disarmament program. A third objection is being promulgated apparently by Japan against the forty percent inferiority allotted to her navy.

Under sea fleets can be reduced in size without jeopardy to America. But entire elimination of the large offensive types from future naval programs might handicap America's strategy. These are the only submarines that America could use for trans-Pacific operations. As long, therefore, as warships are permitted at all for national defense, the super submarine must have a high place in the American scale.

The British strategic position is different and requires surface craft for protecting food ships rather than submarine. Keeping naval construction yards closed during the holiday period is a matter that may become fundamental in the American plan. All the nations must take risks in that respect.

It is a greater risk for a country like England that has never more than seven weeks food supply on hand than for a nation not depending on overseas sources for its food. Nevertheless, the British mercantile shipbuilding business is so vast that it might be utilized to maintain the morale and skill of naval dock yard workers. Under normal working of the Hughes plan, repair yards for war ships will be open, enabling construction working men to keep themselves from forgetting their trade during the ten year holiday.

A Japanese request for a closer approximation to America's naval strength is capable only of very limited adjustment. At present Japan's sea power is about fifty-five percent of America's. The U. S. voluntarily has offered to Japan a five percent increase. Another five percent advance might be made, but beyond that the vastly greater interests in America has to protect must be given primary consideration.

The body is expected to arrive at the home of the deceased's brother, 333 East Tenth street, Friday or Saturday. Funeral arrangements will be made on arrival of the remains and interment will take place at Asbury cemetery, one half mile northwest of Morristown. The deceased is survived by his father, Richard Crawford of Shelbyville, one brother and two sisters.

The deceased leaves a widow and one son, George Billings of Union township. Two brothers, Francis and William of Howard county, a sister, Mrs. Jane Mauler of Marion, and a half sister, Mrs. Pearl Smith of Kokomo, also survives.

ENTHUSIASM OVER NEW COUNTRY CLUB FIRE PUMPER SOON

Stock Members in Meeting Tuesday Night See Nothing But Bright Future For Project

ONE-THIRD OF MONEY IS IN

Directors Urge Payments Be Made at Once So That Site May be Bought and Work Started

Great enthusiasm and optimism regarding the future was displayed at the meeting of the stock members of the Rush County Country Club in the court house assembly room Tuesday night and plans were made for hasty completion of the details incident to the purchase of the land and the beginning of its improvement so that the club will be ready for use next summer.

The meeting was called for the formal election of three directors to succeed R. L. Tompkins, Will O. Feudner and I. L. Endres. They were unanimously elected and the board will meet tonight to elect officers and organize for the coming year. When the club was organized a year, nine directors were elected, three to serve one year, three to serve two years and three to serve three years.

Charles A. Frazee, secretary, reported today that $5,000 had been received in payment on stock, but more money than this will be required for the directors to close the contract for the land at once. It was hoped that several thousand dollars would be forthcoming today so that they could go ahead with the project.

It was stated at the meeting last night that 157 stock members had been obtained, which gives a working capital of $15,700 in addition to the preferred stock which will be sold. The directors, however, are not anxious to issue the preferred stock any sooner than is necessary because interest at six percent begins just as soon as it is issued and starts a drain on the club treasury.

In the interests of economy, the directors had hoped the stock membership subscriptions would come in fast enough so that it would not be necessary to use any of the preferred stock in buying a site. The preferred stock can then be utilized in improving the grounds and building the golf course and club house. For this reason, directors earnestly urged today stock members who are able to pay for their stock, to do so at once, and others who wish to use the de-

SAILOR WELL KNOWN HERE DIES IN WEST

William Crawford, Brother of Ottis Crawford, Expires at Mare Island, Calif., Hospital

TOOK SICK WHILE AT SEA

Word has been received here of the death of William Fern Crawford, formerly of Shelbyville and well known here, at the navy hospital at Mare Island, California, of pulmonary tuberculosis. He had visited his brother, Ottis Crawford, in Rushville frequently.

Crawford joined the navy last April and arrived at Shelbyville on a furlough in July on the morning of his mother's funeral, news of her death having failed to reach him. He spent the remainder of the furlough here with his brother and two nieces, Mrs. J. F. Barnett and Mrs. Herbert Woods. After leaving here, he was taken sick on his ship, the "Penn," while enroute to California via the Panama canal. He was transferred to the hospital ship "Mercy" at San Pedro, California, and then to the Mare Island hospital.

The body is expected to arrive at the home of the deceased's brother, 333 East Tenth street, Friday or Saturday. Funeral arrangements will be made on arrival of the remains and interment will take place at Asbury cemetery, one half mile northwest of Morristown. The deceased is survived by his father, Richard Crawford of Shelbyville, one brother and two sisters.

The deceased leaves a widow and one son, George Billings of Union township. Two brothers, Francis and William of Howard county, a sister, Mrs. Jane Mauler of Marion, and a half sister, Mrs. Pearl Smith of Kokomo, also survives.

COUNCIL WILL BUY FIRE PUMPER SOON

Purchase Not Arranged Tuesday Night Due to Absence of Mayor on Account of Sickness

DEFINITE DATE TO BE FIXED

Six Fire Engine Company Representatives Present Good Points Of Their Equipment

The city council held another fire truck session last night and expects to make a definite decision on the purchase of a fire truck some time next week. Councilmen would have decided last night, but on account of the illness of Mayor Scudder, the meeting will be called when he is able to attend.

Only a few matters in the usual routine of business were taken up, and the remainder of the session was given over to the representatives of the fire engine companies who were present.

Councilman Wagoner acted as chairman during the absence of Mayor Scudder, and upon agreement the councilmen held over the adjournment last night until some time next week, when Mayor Scudder is able to attend the meeting. It was made a matter of record that the meeting will be for the purpose of purchasing a fire pumper.

Six fire engine companies had representatives present, and each was given ten minutes privately with the council to again put forth the qualities of their machines.

John P. Ahrens, vice president of the Ahrens-Fox Company, was the first to speak, and impressed upon the council that the reason why his apparatus was the highest price, was that they manufactured them "not for how cheap, but for how good." The city of Chicago recently awarded them a contract for 38 pumper, and these are now being delivered each week, all of them stopping off here while enroute over land.

The chief engineer of the Seagraves Company presented his argument to the council, and pointed out the good qualities of his pumping engine, and displayed photographs of the latest designed machines.

Charley Caldwell of this city and Mr. Perkins, representing the White Fire Engine company, also spoke to the council and Mr. Caldwell directed his appeal for the good points of the machine, and pleaded with the council to place their order with a home merchant.

Mr. Johnson and John C. Bagley, representing the Boyer-Obenchain firm of Logansport, appeared and Mr. Johnson laid considerable stress upon the purchase of two 300 gallon

FOUR CIVIL SUITS ARE FILED IN COURT

One is Complaint On Note and Others Are to Foreclose on a Garageman's Lien

AUTO DEALERS PLAINTIFFS

Four civil suits were filed this morning in the circuit court, one action being a complaint on a note and the other three were complaints for foreclosure of a garageman's lien. Morgan and Ketchum, attorneys, filed the suits for the plaintiffs.

George Smalley is plaintiff in one action against James Taylor and Max H. Tarplee, the complaint being to collect on a note, in which $100 judgment is demanded.

Irvin Hessell and Emmett Church, partners in the garage business here, are plaintiffs in two suits, one against Thomas Stout, et al., in each suit the plaintiffs seek to foreclose a lien, and in the former suit $50 judgment is demanded, and in the latter suit $30 is asked as judgment.

Gage C. Alexander and Virgil Maffett, garage partners, also have filed a similar suit against Thomas H. Stout, et al., and on this complaint the plaintiffs demand judgment in the sum of $65.

PIG ROAST AND INITIATION

Modern Woodmen Will Have 32 Candidates Thursday Night

The Modern Woodmen are planning for a big time here Thursday night when the pig roast and class adoption will be held, and 32 candidates will be initiated at this time. The work will begin at 7:30 promptly, and all members are urged to attend. State officers of the lodge will be here to assist, and at ten o'clock the pig roast banquet will be served at the Odd Fellows dining hall.

An invitation to all members of camps outside of Rushville was issued today, and it is expected that a record attendance will participate in the initiation and banquet.

PARLEY IS DOWN TO "BRASS TACKS"

Speech Making and Hand Clapping Are Done With and Period of Negotiation Begins

REAL TEST FOR CONFERENCE

Two Great Problems Yet to Come up Are Land Armament and Pacific And Far Eastern Question

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16.—Behind closed doors the arms limitation conference today was at work.

The speech making and the hand-clapping are done with for a time. The period of negotiation or "international poker" is here.

Upon what happens in committee meetings from now on will depend the success or failure of the conference.

Although the conference made notable progress in its first two sessions through the acceptance in principle by the four great powers of America's arms limitation program, much work in secret remains to be done before a complete agreement can be reached. Two great problems are waiting to come before the conference.

These are:

1—The Pacific and Far Eastern situation.

2—Limitation of land armament.

Pacific and Far Eastern questions it was learned, probably will be brought up first in committee. Secretary of State Hughes, it is believed, will not place America views on the conference in the bold open manner in which he announced this country's program for limitation of naval armament.

Limitation of land armament probably will be brought before the conference by Premier Briand in an open session.

Several gatherings were scheduled for the day. First was a meeting of the full conference as a committee on Far Eastern and Pacific questions. This meeting, held behind the guarded portals of the Pan American building was expected to develop the American program for handling the delicate political and economic questions relating to China the open door in Asia, the Anglo-Japanese alliance and Pacific ocean trade and communications.

While the conferees began their work on the Far Eastern problems naval experts began examination of the proposed modifications of the Hughes naval policy plan as submitted yesterday by Great Britain and Japan.

In addition to the statesmen accredited to the conference, Washington is filled with a host of unofficial delegates from other capitals, mostly the smaller states who want to impress their views as to territorial lines, economics, treaty relations, railroads, finances, food and a host of other institutions upon the main conference.

The impression appears to prevail that the present conference marks America's definite entry into world affairs to stay and everybody who

EX-SERVICE MEN GIVEN SUPPORT

Phase of Red Cross Work Advanced as Reason For Rush County People Continuing as Members

REVIEW OF YEAR'S ACTIVITY

Home Service Division, Under Direction of George C. Wyatt, Aids Many Former Soldiers

The work of the Rush county chapter of the Red Cross among former soldiers is advanced as one of the reasons why Rush county people should continue to support it by joining or renewing their annual membership during the annual Roll Call, which is now being conducted.

No definite reports have been received at headquarters in the county recorder's office, but it is known that a canvass is being started in some sections on the county. Thirteen membership renewals have been received at headquarters up to today, and others who have not been visited by canvassers are urged to call at headquarters and leave their dollar membership fee.

Warder H. Wyatt, Rushville city chairman, is preparing to start the canvass of the city at once. There will be one solicitor in every city block and the appeal will be carried into every home.

New York Stocks

(By United Press)

New York, Nov. 16—Rails featured today during the first minutes of trading on the New York stock exchange. Central railroad of New Jersey furnished the real fire works opening at 22. A block of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western was taken at the opening at 112, up 1. Reading gained 5-8 at 713-8.

Equipments were leaders of the industrial list and Baldwin was up 5-8 at 95 $\frac{1}{2}$. Haskell-Barker made a new high for the year at 79. Pullman was unchanged at 109.

Seneca Copper made a new high for the year at 241. Steels were fractionally higher.

Rails continued to lead the market right into the second hour. Lackawanna sold close to 114 while the stocks of Reading were taken as high as 72.

Opening prices on the stock exchange today include: Cuban Cane preferred 175-8; Texas Co. 45 $\frac{3}{4}$ up $\frac{1}{2}$; Reading 713-8 up 5-8; U. S. There is not the slightest disposition by Secretary Hughes however to broaden the scope of the conference beyond its original call.

To tangle European questions into the agenda would be to menace the success of the effort now on foot it is felt.

As the delegates assembled today for the secret session, conversation centered on Hughes' expected statement on the Far East. The Japanese expressed gratification over the fact that the question was to be raised behind closed doors, rather than in the open. They felt that Hughes showed considerable discretion in making his Far East in the plenary session.

No definite day could be set for the awarding of the contract, and all of the representatives will be in close touch with the situation so that they can be here when the time arrives.

Walter Thomas, mayor-elect, was among the visitors last night, getting acquainted with the customs and the routine of council meeting.

ENTHUSIASM OVER NEW COUNTRY CLUB

The success which has attended other country clubs in this region was discussed last night and it was pointed out by local men familiar with the history of the Shelbyville and Newcastle clubs, that the Rush County club was beginning under much better circumstances and with much larger promises of success than either of these. It was shown that the local organization has as many members as either of these clubs now have, and they have been in existence for several years.

In spite of what other clubs have accomplished, it was declared that the Rush County Country Club was a distinctly Rush County project and that it could not compare with others, because conditions are different in every community. Members stated that the success of the club depended on the way it was run and the interest which was shown by the members.

The members will be given an opportunity, it was announced, to demonstrate their interest soon when a call will be issued for men to take the ground which will be purchased for a site and get it in condition for building a golf course.

HIGH PRICES STILL PREVAIL IN FRANCE

Country Must Wait For Restoration of Exchange and Rehabilitation of Industrial Regions

FOOD MINISTER'S OPINION

Merchants Regulate Tail Figures to Cover The Losses Due to Depreciated Value of Franc

By WEBB MILLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Nov. 16—Despite the drop of prices in the United States, France can hope for no immediate and effective decrease in the cost of living for some time to come, in the opinion of Andre Puisant, Food minister of France. France must await:

(1) The restoration of her exchange.

(2) Rehabilitation of her industrial regions destroyed by the war and consequent restoration of her pre-war producing capacity.

Until both these conditions are attained, living in France will continue high, according to Puisant.

Puisant explained that owing to the fact that France is now obliged to buy extremely heavily in foreign markets, particularly the United States, her merchants are obliged to regulate their tail figures to cover the losses due to the depreciated value of the franc.

France buys large quantities of wheat in South America and the United States. She buys cotton and linen from America and England, and hides for leather goods from Argentina. A large proportion of her manufactured articles now come from foreign factories and will continue to until she has had time to get all her own factories working once more.

Puisant also complained that American exporters overcharged French buyers in many instances.

Premier Briand believes he can reach the American ear better now than ever before. He will speak at the next open session presenting his arguments for maintaining France's army. It intends to picture France confronted with the "German menace". France entrusted with enforcing the Versailles treaty, facing a hostile people across the Rhine; France standing guard over civilization against the Bolshevik threat.

He does not intend to demand a treaty or guaranty from America as a substitute for the land armaments.

"We will ask nothing", Briand declared, pounding the table before him.

But Briand wants to show the "why" for the 800,000 men—arguing that they are part of the play for keeping world peace.

The north line of the drive will follow Blue Creek from St. Peters to the Whitewater river and the east line will be Whitewater. The drive starts at 9 a.m.

Foxes are numerous this year. A big catch and plenty of fun is expected. Persons taking part in the drive will not be permitted to carry guns.

Cane Craze Caused By Foreign Envoys

By DAVID L. BLUMFELD

Washington, Nov. 16—Walking sticks and arms conferences seem about as far apart as Cabbages and Kings or the Carpenter's sealing wax and Alice in Wonderland. As a matter of fact, there's a very close alliance between the two. The Arms conference is going to set the fashion in carrying sticks. Every diplomat from across the seas has brought two or three. Lord Lee of Fordham for instance, carried his when he climbed out of his pullman at the Union station here. The Japanese delegates all carried them on their arrival. Secretary Hughes has adopted a black stick with a crook handle. Sir Auckland Geddes has carried one for years and years, as all good Britshers do. Harding Root, and even Secretary Weeks may take the initiative.

Everybody who is anybody in Washington today is carrying a stick. The fashionable men's shops advertise the latest from Piccadilly in walking sticks in their windows and you may see literally scores of young men—and old ones, too, for that matter, emerging from the government offices here for their luncheon with sticks in the crook of their elbows as if they had carried such ornaments all their lives.

Americans generally say that they have no time to carry such useless things as walking sticks. The American who goes to London or Paris buys himself a walking stick. When he gets home he drops it like a hot brick—presumably for fear of being laughed at.

Today he has has pulled it out into use again. In the rooms of the government offices here where formerly one saw but hats and coats hanging on pegs one now can count the stickless pegs on one's fingers.

HAS WELL DEFINED PLAN OF ACTION

France's Participation in Arms Conference Will Not be Postponed Beyond Another Plenary Session

BRIAND TO LEAVE NOV. 23

Delegates Hope America Will Propose Further Reduction in Land Armaments on Part of That Nation

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16.—France's active participation in the limitation of arms conference will not be postponed beyond another plenary session.

A certain genial Celtic gentleman didn't get himself a vote of confidence and come 3,000 miles just to sit on the sidelines. Premiers with a Celtic strain and an unruly opposition don't do that.

One of these days, today, maybe when attention is focused on Japan and England and anticipated replies to the Hughes' naval proposals Monsieur Briand is liable to slip down from his perch on the fence alongside of half a dozen little lookers-on nations and inquire if this is a private dispute. He may also remind the rest that he's going home about the 23rd of November, and that it might be a good idea to start talking about France's problems.

The French delegates hope the lead for such a discussion may come from America in the form of a proposal to France which will permit of further reduction in land armaments on the part of that nation. But if the proposal doesn't come, Briand may take the initiative.

The French premier has prepared a well defined plan of action. He knows just how far France is prepared to go which is just about where she is at present unless guarantees of a substantial nature are forthcoming.

Nothing is to be gained by approaching the subject delicately. Briand has as good as promised to go at it in the "Hughes-way."

The attitude of France will be that she already has reduced her army to the absolute limit of national security at the moment. She would prefer to exchange a cut in her present land armaments for a guarantee from the great powers. If Premier Briand could go back to France with some sort of promise from England and America along the lines of the tri-partite agreement approved by former President Wilson, it would be no inconsiderable feather in his political cap.

WILL NOT CANCEL THE JAP ALLIANCE

Great Britain Must Have a Satisfactory Substitute From The Arms Conference

WANTS AMERICA INCLUDED

Alliance Held Essential Unless a Practical Agreement on Far East is Reached

By CARL D. GROAT
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16—Great Britain will not cancel the Anglo-Japanese alliance unless she gets at the arms conference a satisfactory substitute. This emanated today from persons conversant wholly with the British position. What the empire wants is an "agreement"—alliance is avoided as repugnant to American ideas—among America, England, Japan and perhaps China.

Qualified authorities made it plain that England does not even dream of ditching the alliance upon request from America until adequate scheme for replacing it is presented. "We will not be coerced by America into doing that", said one Britisher, while others held that the alliance is essential unless a practical agreement as to the Far Eastern question is reached.

The American delegation is known to be favorable to an agreement amongst all the powers interested in the Far East—an agreement capable of supplanting the alliance by offering sufficient guarantee to England and to make it worth while to scrap what has become repugnant to America and even a source of displeasure within parts of the empire.

America is expected to present a Far Eastern program based on these lines:

An "agreement" among the powers affected, as to Far Eastern questions, backed by an international council of some sort for adjudication of Eastern difficulties.

Adoption of the open door policy in the east, with guarantees for the political integrity of China and Russia, the latter's interest to be safeguarded by the other nations until she is able to come back into the international family.

SAYS MARINES WERE EATEN BY HAITAINS

H. M. Pelkington Testifies Before Senate Committee Regarding Conditions on Island

PRIMITIVE IDEA IS BLAMED

Washington, Nov. 16—American marines after being put to death by torture were eaten by Haitian bandits, H. M. Pelkington of New York charged today before the senate committee investigating conditions in the Island.

Instances of cannibalism cited by Pelkington were those of Private Lawrence, a marine who was tortured to death and his body eaten and Lieutenant Muth, whose body was eaten after he had been slain.

"Oh, there is nothing vicious about Haitian bandits," sarcastically remarked Pelkington. "Even the persons who killed and ate the marines were the most amiable chaps."

Pelkington said the natives have the primitive notion that when they eat human flesh the courage of their victim is transmitted to them. The witness told the committee that the Americans are partly responsible for the antagonism of the natives because of the failure of the Americans to understand the psychology of the situation. He said the French had mistreated the natives until they feared similar treatment from the American forces.

Our Uncle Sam
Is Big Investor

Washington, Nov. 16.—Uncle Sam is quite a capitalist and investor. Your Uncle holds securities, which of course in his possession are tax free, amounting to a grand total of $11,326,731,680. At least he had investments of this sum at the close of the last fiscal year. Since then there have been some changes, but the gross total is about the same. The list at the end of the year as compiled by the Treasury showed the following.

Obligations of foreign governments held against much discussed foreign loans, $9,434,774,829.

Foreign obligations received on account of sales of war surplus property by War Department $562,781,701.

Same by the Navy Department, $2,226,710.

Foreign obligations received on account of relief work $84,093,966.

Capital stock of war emergency corporations, $268,550,377.

Obligations of railroads and equipment trust certificates held, $375,357,550.

Obligations of carriers under transportation act $305,080,103.

Capital stock of federal land banks $6,700,675.

Federal Farm loan bonds, $183,035,000.

Domestic obligations received by the Secretaries of War and Navy and Shipping Board for surplus materials, $103,000,000.

Gifford Pinchot Carries On

The United States must prepare to cultivate its own timber, or eventually go without lumber. We cannot depend on other countries for timber, because the shortage is world-wide. Even if all of Canada's timber were available to us, it would not meet our needs for more than twenty years".

These words by Gifford Pinchot, consistent fighter for a real forest policy, before the Forest Policy committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in New York the other day, are food for the thoughtful.

The significance of this statement is not concerned alone with the lumber shortage, housing problems, etc.

One of the items of consumption of timber, perhaps the most devastating represents pure waste, and is growing at the rate of 100 percent a year.

The use of paper cartons and containers for food and drugs, takes from our supply of timber three times the wood pulp required for the newspapers:

And the average large newspaper requires the timber from 25 to 30 acres for each day's edition.

Are we to continue to pay ridiculously high prices for food in the pretty paper package, and pay constantly rising rentals?

Or are we, like the common sense Americans we used to be, going to buy our food in bulk and release the wood for some of the 5,000,000 houses desperately needed in this country?

Our Cards on The Table

The Japanese ambassador at Washington is refreshingly frank and to the point. He suggests that the Americans and Japanese could come to a better understanding if the practice of backbiting could be eliminated.

Possibly he is right, but we imagine his remarks would be applicable to Japan as well as to this country. Nations and people have a right to express their opinions in a straightforward and manly way, and it is not to be expected that they will always agree. But backbiting is conducive to friction and trouble. No good ever comes from it.

If we don't want our women to marry Japanese men that is our business. If the Japanese don't want our men to marry their women, that is their business. Neither has a right to object, although we understand that is one of the reasons the Japanese have for their feeling of resentment toward us.

Our cards are on the table gentlemen of Nippon. Put yours there and we will have less cause for future trouble.

Writing to the New York Tribune Harold Scarborough says "disintegration and not revolt is the chief menace to soviet rule in Russia". The poor creatures have been so harried by terrorism and weakened by starvation that they have neither the courage nor the strength to revolt.

A prominent financial paper tells of large Wall Street operators patronizing lunch rooms and cafeterias instead of indulging in the more formal lunches that have hitherto been the vogue. This may be an effort to help along the movement for reduced cost of living.

The play in the arms conference has been largely from the bleachers. It is now time for the delegates to show a little team work since they have become acquainted with the signals.

If this meeting in Washington is a success, William Jennings for one at least, will qualify for membership in the "I Told You So Club".

We all have something in common if the farmers of Indiana, in session in Indianapolis are seeking a way to make more money.

The doctrine that all men are born equal may be all right, but the fellow who depends upon it to keep up with the push gets left.

Forget your last year's winter hat. You will look a lot handsomer to the dealer if you wear a new one.

True, love may make the world go round, but it keeps a bunch of coin to keep going.

Current Comment

Defeat of the N. P. League
(Kansas City Star)

The Nonpartisan League like the Populist uprising in Kansas, was essentially a protest rather than a practical constructive movement. The protest has been made. Now comes the need for more effective leadership. That is the reason for the political overturning in the North Dakota recall election of last week.

The chief grievance of the wheat farmers of the state was over the grading of wheat by the purchasers in the Twin Cities. The elevator companies were autocratic in their attitude. The farmers felt they were being unjustly treated and that they had no recourse.

Out of this grievance largely grew the program for state owned elevators and mills, and for general enlargement of state activities. But governments are notoriously wasteful and inefficient in conducting business. The men in charge in North Dakota were predominantly of the agitator sort, and were not qualified for industrial leadership. The state bank they organized had difficulties. The industrial projects they attempted proved expensive beyond expectations, and of uncertain success. Taxes shot up and the hoped-for benefits did not materialize.

Behind the whole program was this fundamental trouble—lack of diversified farming. In most of the state the farmer is solely a wheat raiser. This involves two difficulties: Raising spring wheat requires only four or five months work a year; nobody in this age can expect to earn a good living unless he has a chance for productive labor over a larger share of the year. And if wheat conditions are bad, either from weather, or from the standpoint of labor, transportation or markets, the farmer is up against it.

This basic problem the Nonpartisan League program failed to take into account. It sought relief through governmental activity from a situation that requires individual effort.

The protest movement has helped correct the grain trading abuse. But the field for effective protest is limited. From an outside standpoint, the problem of the new state administration will be to abandon the extravagant government projects, get down to brass tacks and furnish leadership toward obtaining that larger diversification of farm business that is required to put the North Dakota farmer on a basis of permanent prosperity.

VARSITY WILL STEP
OUT FOR FIRST TIME

Accompanied by Band and Rooters,
High School Team Goes to
Martinsville Friday

SECONDS TO MEET GLENWOOD

The Rushville high school basketball team will step out again Friday night in real company when they journey over to Martinsville for a game with one of the fastest teams in that section of the state.

Several rooters are planning to accompany the team and arrangements have been made to take the 20 piece high school band along for the trip, and help the locals in winning the game if possible. Martinsville defeated Greencastle by a close score last Friday night at Greencastle.

The showing that the locals made against Columbus last Friday is very encouraging for a close game at Martinsville, and the red and black players will make a big attempt to win their first game away from home.

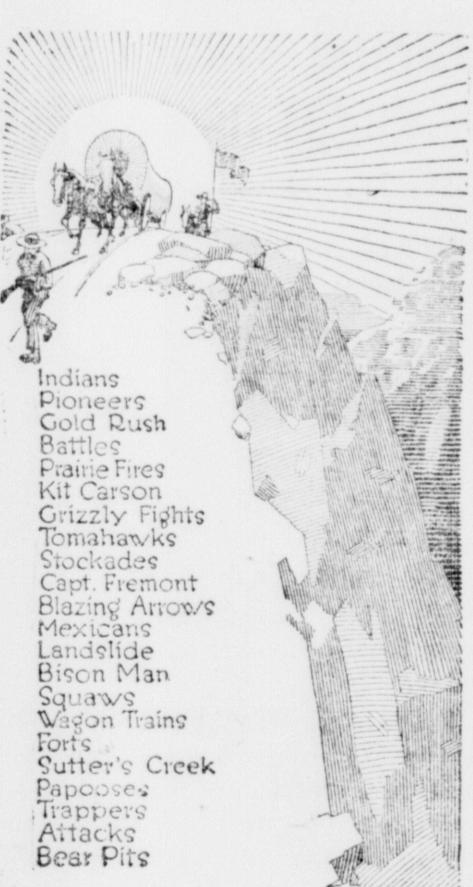

While the varsity squad is away from home, the second team also will take the road and journey over to Glenwood to play the first team of that place, having won a close game from them over here a few weeks ago.

INDEPENDENTS
TO OPEN SEASON

Odd Fellows Basketball Team Organized Again This Year and Will Play First Game Tuesday

SANDUSKY IS COMING HERE

Many Improvements Made at Modern Appliance Building Which Will Now Accommodate 1,000

The Odd Fellows basketball team will open the season next Tuesday night, November 22, at the Modern Appliance "gym," meeting the fast Sandusky Independents, it was announced today. A curtain-raiser will also be arranged. The local team has been practicing for some time and indications point to a winning aggregation. Last year the team won nineteen out of twenty-four games and they are out this year to maintain their record.

The Sandusky team is practically the same that represented the Sandusky high school last season and should prove a big drawing card. The Marlow brothers are playing forward positions and stars of former high school teams there are in the line-up. Last year Sandusky won the sectional high school tourney here and went to the finals in the state meet.

A strong schedule is being arranged for the locals and games will be played on Tuesday nights as was the custom last year. Russel Kirkpatrick is acting as coach for the local squad, which numbers twelve men, and Russell Titsworth is captain.

With the opening of the season, extensive improvements have been made at the Modern Appliance building and the "gym" is one of the best in this section of the country. The seating capacity has been enlarged to accommodate approximately 1,000 persons and the dressing rooms have been rearranged and shower baths installed. A new entrance has been provided, on the east side of the building and a large lobby is provided. The building will be comfortably heated for all games, it is announced, and no expense will be spared to give the fans real basketball at all times.

Plans for the season include a sectional tournament to be held here February 10 and 11, in which independent teams from several counties will take part. This will be one of the largest sectional meetings in the state and arrangements will be made to handle large crowds. Details of the tourney will be announced later.

Many communications have been received regarding games among the number being one from the famous Em-Roe aggregation of Indianapolis. This team will be booked again this season and the locals are confident of giving them a battle for the honors.

Further announcement will be made of the plans for the opening night, November 22.

Fast Carthage Team Takes Close Basketball Game From Y. M. C. A. Leaders Tuesday Night

NIP AND TUCK ALL THE WAY

The Carthage Yankee Five basketball team hung up a great victory at Carthage last night, when they defeated the Y. M. C. A. leaders of Indianapolis by the close score of 24 to 21. The game was hard fought from start to finish, and the first half ended in a tie, 12 to 12.

Chambers at forward scored 16 points for Carthage, and Simmonds, center, scored the other eight points. Starbuck, former Purdue player and Burlingame starred for the visitors. The Indianapolis team had good team work, but could not connect for enough after having plenty of throws at the basket.

FINAL SET FOR FEB. 23, 24, 25

Last Year 238 Teams Participated in Tourney Which Was Won by Trafalgar Five

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16—Plans are all made, dates all set, district tournaments scheduled and everything is ready for the third annual Indiana amateur independent basketball championship, where the independent champions of the Hoosier state will be decided in a "championship way".

Twenty sectional meets will be held over the state and the winners of these sectional meets will meet at Indianapolis on February 23, 24 and 25th to decide the state title. The district tournaments will be held at Frankfort, Indianapolis, Gary, Terre Haute, Auburn, Carthage, Thorntown, Rushville, Bellmeier, Converse, Boswell, Sullivan, Sandborn, Plymouth, Valley Mills, Orleans, Brownstown, Scottsburg, Greensburg, Crawfordsville, Vincennes and Hamilton.

Last season, 238 teams took part in the great classic, and it is expected that at least 400 quintets in the state will battle for the crown this season. The tournament is open to every independent team in the state with an amateur standing.

The annual affair has proven a great success as it gives the ex-high school and ex-college men an honor to fight for, as when these men were members of a school team. The tournament games, both the sectional and state final meets, have brought forth good basketball which was clean and all players showed good sportsmanship.

Last season the state championship was won by the Trafalgar Independent team. This team represented a town of only 400 population. The Indiana Amateur Independent Basket Ball Tournament is the largest state tournament in the county for independent teams.

Wayne Emmelmann of Indianapolis, who is at the head of the project, asks that all teams be entered as early as possible. Practically every team is now organized and it is expected that all entries will be in by the first of next month.

All teams expecting to take part in the tournament are requested to write Wayne Emmelmann, 219 West Washington street, Indianapolis.

the visitors in the last two minutes of play. A big crowd of fans witnessed the game, and the score was tied frequently throughout the game, with neither team at any time having a three point lead.

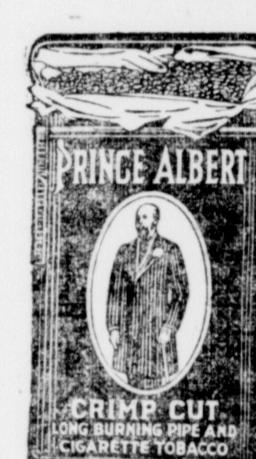

The victory by Carthage gives them a good reputation in the state, as the Indianapolis team has lost only one other game in two years, and last week defeated the strong Mooresville Elks by a ten point margin.

Talk About McGraw Retiring is Not Taken Seriously—Tris Speaker Expected to Remain

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(C. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Nov. 16—With politics a dead issue and all of the magnates calling each other "little pal", baseball has nothing to talk about now but spring training plans.

Most of the major clubs have already selected the southern port in which they will set their 1922 candidates ready.

In the United States are nearly seven million men and women who cannot read and speak English.

Cohan is successful in buying a franchise. Hugo Bezdek former manager of the Pirates and the coach of the great Penna state football team, may return to baseball according to a fairly reliable report. It is said that Bezdek is interested with a syndicate that is looking for a franchise and that he would spend his summer baseballing without giving up his football work.

There was much talk at the end of last season that Tris Speaker would give up baseball, but Cleveland fans are expecting the Indian chief to be back in his war paint in the spring.

HOPPE BEATS FRENCHMAN

Chicago, Nov. 16—Willie Hoppe; world's 182 balk line billiard champion, schemes on his way to another crown by defeating Roger Conti of France last night, 400 to 188 in six innings, in his initial play of the title tourney. Morningstar defeated Edouard Horemans, Belgium, 400 to 171.

The world's champion Giants are to return to San Antonio and they probably will work their way north with the White Sox. The Yanks are looking for a place in Texas and probably will decide upon Houston. The American league champions will play a pre-season series with the St. Louis Cards and the Brooklyn Robins.

The Cincinnati Reds are going to Mineral Springs, the Indians to Dallas and the Pirates and the Red Sox will return to Hot Springs. Ty Cobb's Tigers will work out again in San Antonio. From the absence of talk about managerial changes, it seems that all of the club owners will stick to their last season's pilots.

Despite all talk to the contrary, it is almost certain that Miller Huggins can manage his champion Yanks again if he cares to and the annual talk about John McGraw retiring from the management of the Giants is not being taken seriously. Johnny Evers probably will return to the National league champions as a coach, although there has been some talk that they would get another managerial job if George

Washington, Nov. 16.—The acceptances made by Great Britain and Japan assure the success of the arms limitation conference.

If nothing more is done, it would be an epoch-making gathering, for, as Arthur Balfour declared, the work already done surpassed any reduction in armament known in all the world's history.

But what is scarcely less important everyone seems to accept the reduction in battleships as determining the line to be followed on other matters. The reduction of land forces can scarcely be less in proportion with the enthusiastic reception given to the scrapping of battleships.

France, at once, interpreted the action taken in regard to navies as indicating what must be expected in the reduction of armies and Premier Briand gave notice of his desire to discuss his government's position on this subject.

Secretary Hughes assured him that an early opportunity would be given.

Now, that the keynote has been sounded and the character of the proceedings determined, attention can be turned to less important things.

Nothing, of course, could compare in importance with the substances of the acceptances made by Great Britain and Japan, but there was a minor matter which aroused universal interest.

It was the difference in the oratory of Balfour and Premier Briand.

Mr. Balfour has a fine face and his long experience in public life gives him ease of manner. He is a man of great intelligence and wide information. His speech was all that could be asked. It contained strong sentences; it was well put together; it was rhetorically excellent. His language was in keeping with his exalted thought and the audience not only listened intently, but was anxious to applaud.

The crowd was actually disappointed that it could not unpeel his speech with applause, as it did the speech of Secretary Hughes, but Mr. Balfour gave them no invitation. His sentences concluded in a way that prevented a demonstration.

WATERWAY TO SEA SUBJECT FOR FARMERS

W. L. Harding, Former Governor of Iowa, Discusses St. Lawrence Project at State Convention

GOV. McCRAY A SPEAKER

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16—Questions of taxation and discussion of the St. Lawrence river waterway to the sea marked the second day of the convention of the Indiana Federation of Farmer's Association.

John G. Brown, president of the organization, was prepared to take up taxation matters and outline how the farmer regards the present system of taxation.

W. L. Harding, former governor of Iowa, was scheduled to tell the farmers how opening the St. Lawrence to sea-going vessels would open up greater fields for them through revised transportation methods.

The farmer is getting the "bad end of the bargain," Governor McCray declared, addressing the farmers late yesterday. Labor costs and taxes should come down, the governor said, if the farmers are to benefit. McCray told the farmers he was going to Washington last night in an effort to procure help for them.

IS KILLED IN HOLDUP

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 16.—One passenger was killed when Iron Mountain passenger train No. 136 southbound, was held up by two masked negroes near Malvern, Ark., today, according to advices received here. A request that bloodhounds be rushed to the scene was received by Little Rock police.

The drinking situation at the present time in our colleges is a serious one," the message said. Greek letter fraternities flooded the postoffice with 2,000 copies of the appeal.

Arbuckle's Wife Ready To Put Husband's Fate in Hands of Women

Minta Durfee Says She is Not Afraid of Own Sex Sitting in Judgment in Fatty's Case—Jury Expected to Include at Least Three Women

By M. D. TRACY
U. P. Staff Correspondent

San Francisco, Nov. 16—Minta Durfee, wife of Roscoe Arbuckle is ready to place his fate in the hands of women she has never seen.

She told the United Press today that she is willing to see "Fatty" defending himself before women jurors on charges of causing the death of Virginia Rappe.

The jury to try Arbuckle for manslaughter, which was expected to be complete today was believed to be certain to include at least three women.

"I am not afraid to have women on the jury" Minta Durfee said. "In fact I welcome them, for they will understand."

"Roscoe is just a great big boy to me and when these women sitting as jurors hear his story they will see it the way I see it; they will know he never could do the terrible things with which he is charged. They will vindicate him."

"The world will never know what Roscoe has suffered. He wants the wishes of good people women and children especially. As I sit in court I sometimes become afraid. When they call a new juror I have a feeling like stage fright. And then my fears leave me when I look at Roscoe in front of me. I remember that he is innocent and that no harm can come to him."

"You know this trial is really a relief. I am glad it has started."

"There was a possibility that the prosecution would begin introduction of its sensational evidence late this afternoon. Eleven jurors, five of them married women, already had been used and it was believed the jury. No peremptory challenges had been used and it was believed the defense would use three or four probably dismissing at least two of the women."

HEARING STARTS IN COURT OF APPEALS

Strike of All Miners is Threatened if Judge Anderson's Check-off Ruling is Upheld

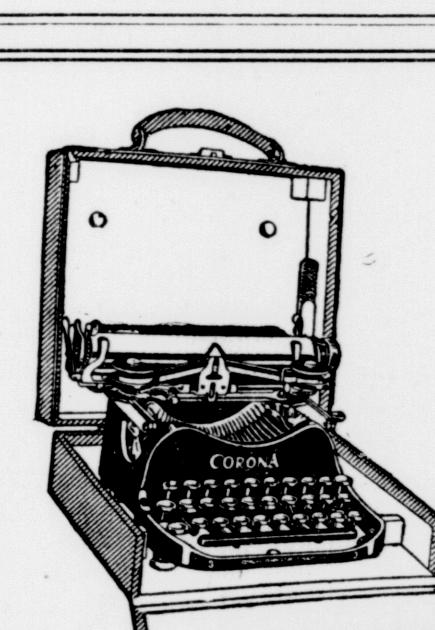

STAY GRANTED ON NOV. 3

Chicago, Nov. 16—Hearing on the injunction against the check off system at the mines by Federal Judge Anderson, Indianapolis, was up in the U. S. court of appeals here today.

Judge Anderson issued an order restraining mine operators from collecting union dues as provided in agreements with unions. A temporary stay order was issued by the court of appeals here Nov. 3 and the case set for hearing today.

Most of the 35,000 miners in central states who struck following Judge Anderson's injunction, returned to the pits when the stay order was granted.

Strike of all miners is threatened if the court of appeals upholds Judge Anderson's injunction.

MINE BOSS SAYS HE WAS HELPLESS

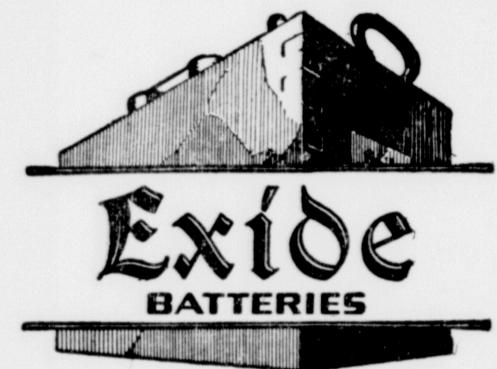

Arizona Man Was Simply Down and Out and Couldn't Even Move Himself—Feels Fine Now

Harry E. Scott, a well-known mine boss, whose address is Box 683, Tombstone, Arizona, writes:

"I was down and out nearly all the time with rheumatism and finally got to where I couldn't move, even to feed myself. My wife thought I would never get well again, and she knew my condition better than anyone else."

"I was absolutely helpless when my wife started giving me Tanlac and in four days I ate a hearty meal for the first time in many months. Tanlac put me on my feet and I'm back on the job working hard and feeling just fine. I have gained eighteen pounds in weight, too."

Tanlac is sold in Rushville by F. B. Johnson Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere. Advertisement

NEW PRESIDENT TO HEAD DRIVE

Dean Stanley Coulter of Purdue Will Have Charge of the Annual Seal Campaign in State

SEAL SALE IN DECEMBER

Proceeds is For State Association of The Tuberculosis Fund, to Carry on Their Work

Ft. Wayne Nov 16—Dean Stanley Coulter, acting president of Purdue University, will head the annual Christmas Seal Sale in Indiana, according to announcement today by Dr. Eric Crull, of this city, president of the State Tuberculosis association. Dr. Crull announced that Dean Coulter has accepted the chairmanship of the Christmas Seal Sale Committee, which comprises sixty-five prominent men and women of the state. The sale, to be held in December, provides the funds with which the state association carries on its year-round campaign against the "white plague."

Dean Coulter succeeds Dr. William Lowe Bryan, President of Indiana University, who was chairman of the committee last year. Dr. Crull announced that executive offices for the committee and the sale will be maintained in Indianapolis at the state association headquarters, under the direction of Murray A. Auerbach, executive secretary of the Indiana Tuberculosis Association. As in past years the state association will co-operate with the county organizations, which will sell the seals and use practically all the money raised thereby in carrying on the work against the disease.

In connection with the announcement of Dean Coulter's acceptance, Dr. Crull made public a statement by the new chairman, who says:

"It is high time that the people of Indiana realized how negligent they have been with regard to tuberculosis. They have contributed nobly to many causes including some that did not closely affect them but they have failed to protect themselves adequately from a danger, in the form of tuberculosis may be materially lessened by the contribution annually of a few dollars by every Hoosier able to spare the money."

"Last year there were 3,151 deaths in this state from tuberculosis and it is estimated that there are now about 30,000 active cases of the disease in the state. Every case is a distinct threat to the community in which it is found. Yet less than 500 beds are maintained for people suffering from the disease. Only four counties have hospitals to which a tuberculosis patient may be sent for treatment. This is truly an appalling state of affairs."

"As long as the people of the state neglect to provide facilities for the isolation and treatment of sufferers from the disease, tuberculosis will continue to be a menace and the lives of many people endangered. The death rate from tuberculosis must be reduced. It can only be reduced by the provision of facilities for treatment and by popular education in the methods of prevention. The Indiana Tuberculosis Association, supported by money obtained by the sale of Christmas Seals every year, has been carrying on a consistent campaign for years to bring about isolation and cure of existing cases and the prevention of future cases. It should have the whole hearted support of all the people in the state."

"The Christmas Seal Sale Committee this year, working with the county organizations, appeals to the people of the state to contribute dimes where they have been contributing pennies and to contribute dollars where they have been giving dimes. Self-protection demands such action."

AMUSEMENTS

"After the Show"—Princess

Appealing, dramatic and at times highly pathetic is the theme of William deMille's new Paramount picture production of "After the Show" which will be shown at the Princess theatre today and Thursday. The story, written by Rita Weiman, deals with the stage, and Jack Holt, Lila Lee and Charles Ogle are the featured players. The scenario was written by Hazel MacDonald and Vianna Knowlton.

Eileen, a chorus girl, is the protegee of Pop, an aged stage door keeper who guards her jealously from the intrigues in which stage girls and wealth boudoirs largely figure, to the disadvantage of the former. When Eileen meets Larry Taylor, who wins her love, Pop is suspicious of the truth of Larry's sentiments towards his ward. When he finds her slipping out of his life, Pop resorts to a daring expedient which has a dramatic finale. But happily, after a period of dark doubt, true love has its innings and all are rendered happy.

Shirley Mason at The Mystic

Failure is apparent not in the lexicon of Shirley Mason, the William Fox star. She will score another emphatic triumph, when she is seen today at the Mystic in "Lovetime", the romance of a maid of Savoy. The story, written by Hubert La Due, is dainty and wholesome in sentiment. The picture is handsomely staged by Howard M. Mitchell—who has directed much of Miss Mason's best work—and the entire support of the star is excellent headed by Raymond McKee as leading man.

The romance of "Lovetime" begins when an artist of noble birth, wandering into a village of Savoy under an assumed name, paints the portrait of a little peasant maid whose beauty has attracted him. The scene shift to Paris, whether she goes to escape the attentions of an aged Don Juan and where she earns a living by her ability as a singer and dancer. The young artist follows her—so does the aged Don Juan—his uncle. The latter enlists the corporation of the artist's aristocratic mother to prevent a union of the loving pair, and difficulties therupon are erected. But all comes right in the end, of course; and meanwhile Shirley Mason is busy building up the sympathy and admiration of the audience for the pretty heroine.

"Lovetime" is to be recommended as delightful entertainment

"Irene" at The Murat

"Irene," the smart musical comedy, which comes to the Shubert-Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, for one week commencing Monday, November 21, as its Thanksgiving attraction with matinees Thursday and Saturday, has scored triumphs both in New York, Boston and Chicago and presents a pleasing refutation of the statement that musical comedy cannot be made interesting, tuneful and amusing at one and the same time. It combines all of these qualities to a superlative degree and holds an enviable place by itself in modern theatrical history.

The book, by James Montgomery, is most entertaining, telling, as it does, an interesting story of a Cinderella shop-girl who is suddenly elevated to smart society. Harry Tierney has written a melodious and captivating score with a number of refreshing hits, including "Alice Blue Gown," "We're Getting Away With It," "Sky Rocket," "Irene," "Castle of Dreams" and "The Last of Every Party," which lend themselves to exceptional dancing and singing. The rollicking lyrics are by Joseph McCarthy and the staging by Edward Royce, of the Gayety Theatre, London, is of high order.

Irene is a shop girl, who, through a visit to the country home of Donald Marshall, to inspect some unsatisfactory goods, is introduced to a male modiste in search of models. Clothes may not make the man but they certainly make the girl in this instance, for, garbed in her borrowed apparel she wins the heart of both her benefactor and her audience.

This shift in the heroine's station in life is cleverly used to introduce scenes alternating between the emerald lawns of a Long Island country house and the back walls of a tenement with its dreary zigzags of fire escapes. Two of Irene's girl friends accompany her in her social ascent, but their mothers view it all suspiciously and act accordingly in diverting situations.

In England it is a custom to hang a bundle of straw under a bridge that is being repaired, as a sign that boats passing underneath should be careful.

MOSCOW IS A CITY FULL OF REFUGEES

No Street Repair Work Done Since The Revolution and Thoroughfare Are Jagged Witholes

CONTROLLED BY SOVIETS

Foreign Office in Metropole Hotel Where The Staff Work Eat and Sleep—Food is Good

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER

Moscow, (By Mail)—Our train rolled into Moscow one afternoon, and we alighted on a platform filled with refugees.

Outside we saw what looked like an entire market-place full of them, all with packs, colored shawls, and dirty handkerchiefs or frousy caps on their heads, with an occasional droshky standing out here and there among the crowd.

It seemed as if a whole city full of fugitives were encamped there in front of the beautiful Gothic station. This is a daily scene at train time.

Shouting and gesticulating, a dozen izvoschiki (coachmen) started for me. After bargaining furiously a few minutes over the price, one of them held out his hat and all pitched their drivers' tags into it, bidding me to draw "as a newly arrived varishitch (comrade) from America".

The driver whose tag I drew, scooted for his horse and wagon. The aged porters, with holes in their shoes stuffed with rags to keep the cold out, maneuvered our luggage upon the wagon. We—Herbert Pulitzer, of the New York World, an English newspaperman, and myself climbed on top, and, after the driver had distributed us about like balast to keep the outfit upright, we started off into the great capital of the world revolution.

We were unescorted. Our passports had been taken from us at the frontier. We had no means of identifying ourselves, if challenged by a Red Guard.

One of the first vehicles we met was an armored motor tank, in which we could see the nodding helmets of a dozen Red Guards.

Our route took us first through a deserted market zone, its long rows of bolted shop fronts presenting very much the appearance of the river market district of Chicago early in the morning when the meat trucks have just begun to circulate.

On the sidewalks an uninterrupted procession of refugees kept passing and passing, some towards the station, others away from it, some with packs, some without. Moscow seemed then, as it has since, to be a city of refugees.

Occasionally the monotony was broken by the drab figure of a Red guard, his long overcoat flapping against his ankles, his drab helmet lighted up by the big red star of the revolution are everywhere, as much a part of the physical setting of Red Moscow as the drab building themselves from which their uniforms seem to have taken their color.

They are a silent lot—phlegmatic stolid, unreasoning, yet not overbearing or hostile, mostly peasant boys, responsive to a pleasant smile or friendly word.

No street repair work has been done in Moscow since the revolution and the cobblestone thoroughfares are pockmarked with jagged holes. Between ruts, we carried on a spasmodic conversation with our driver.

He was "no Bolshevik" he explained emphatically. Like the masses of all nations at all times, he cut his political creed according to the size of his bread ration. Bad bread means bad government, he reasoned.

"Have you a Soviet republic in the United States, too," he inquired eagerly.

He was surprised when I answered "no." He had thought every country had them.

The resuming petty commercial life following the government's recent decree permitting small trade, became increasingly evident as we neared the center of the city. Shop after shop, recently opened, broke the monotony of the long blocks of boarded-up window fronts. Apple-women were bending over their stands. Near the Teahar Place I saw an aged bootblack, kneeling beside his customer.

We stopped in front of a hotel that seemed closed for the winter, the Savoy, one of the hosteries reserved for foreigners. The manager of the hotel, an earnest young proletarian, who may have been a plumber or machine-shop worker before, sent us up to the commander of the hotel. Each hostelry, being a government institution, has both a military and civil staff. The manager is in charge of the civilian department—bellboys, chambermaids, porters, etc. The commander is responsible for the protection of the house and directly responsible to the Soviet government.

Two or three Red guards stood near the booking desk. One of them was detailed to take us in charge. The commander informed us that before we could get a room we must go to the "Glavni Commandant," the "chief commander," or billeting officer, who disposed of all quarters in the city, like the American billeting officer in the occupied towns on the Rhine.

The Glavni Commandant was courteous and accommodating, but explained that he had to have the formal permission of the foreign office. He also asked to see our "permits" (papers given foreigners in lieu of their passports which are not returned until you leave the country). He did, however, promise to hold a room until the Foreign Office instructed him.

At the Foreign Office we were informed that the head of the "American department" (the guardian angel of all Americans in Moscow) would not be back until 11 that evening, but that we would surely be taken care of.

The foreign office is in the Metropole Hotel, one of Moscow's larger hotels. In it, the staff work, eat and sleep.

The broad Theater Place nearby, with the Grecian theater at one end and its gardens stretching two blocks through the center of the city, was another sea of refugees.

Some peasants, with their packs over their shoulders, pilgrims from the ever-enlarging famine zone. Others, ordinary residents of Moscow, with here and there a middle-classer, a former "bourgeois," in his shabby business clothes. I was struck by the small number of middle class. All, proletarians, peasants, or middle class, were in old clothes. I have not yet seen a white collar in all Moscow.

We had dinner in a dainty little restaurant, just reopened, finished in blue. The manager, a young university student, of fine features, greeted us in perfect French. He said his family had been wealthy. They had "fortunately" been able to save enough to start this eating house when the new economic regime was inaugurated." He added, "We are very thankful to have a restaurant. It at least assures us of enough to eat."

I have never eaten better. The portions were heaping, and the cuisine was equal to Broadway's best. We had vegetable soup Russian style; mutton chops; roasted potatoes, in gravy; bread and butter; chocolate; French pastry, and a small peach. Our bill was seventy-five thousand roubles each.

There were only three other customers, all foreigners. The proprietor explained that they were obliged to charge such prices that none but foreigners, with foreign exchange, could afford to patronize them.

Before we left, a Red officer sat down at one of the tables. I have eaten at this restaurant several times since, and have never seen anyone but foreigners or Red officers.

The street outside was dimly lighted by a small electric lamp at the corner. The Theater Place, however, the region of the foreign office and certain other central sections of the city were as bright as the outlying business sections, say of Kansas City or Los Angeles.

At the foreign office, we were quizzed briefly by Comrade Weinstein, head of the American section, and informed that a double room was ready for us at the Savoy. The bellhop wore the long-flowing, shirt-coat of Russia, a loose garment gathered at the waist by a belt, and reaching down to the knees. After five minutes of bargaining, he agreed to carry our five suitcases up the four flights of stairs for ten thousand roubles.

A single blanket was thrown over the bed as bed-clothing. The bellhop entered with tea. He quickly bent over the mattress when I told him—not, as I thought—to see whether there really were insects, but simply to see what kind they were. The big red ones bit viciously, he explained; the gray ones were less savage, and a few kinds did not bite at all. They just crawled. Nearly all the hotels in Moscow have become infested in this way since they were closed. Insect powder, to be sprinkled over the mattress under the bed-clothing, and in little rings on the floor around each bedstead, is as necessary a part of a traveler's equipment in Russia as the toothbrush.

The bellhop promised to bring up a pail of hot water from the second floor in the morning, as the plumbing hadn't been repaired.

Exceptional Opportunity For Conservative Investors

We have convinced some of the highest type of business and professional men in Rush County that the 8% First Preferred Stock now being offered by the Muncie Water Works Company of Muncie, Indiana, is a rare opportunity for investment. Far sighted investors know that in one year hence it will be impossible for them to invest safely at 8% net.

Shrewd business men realize when their money is invested in a business that has a monopoly of one of the four necessities of life the danger if loss is almost impossible when compared with the average investment.

We began serving Muncie with Water when its population was about 4,000. Muncie now ranks among the leading manufacturing cities of the State with some 40,000 population. It isn't a secret, for everyone knows that nearly all lines of business have suffered a loss in the last two years. Many of our strongest corporations have passed dividends BUT I WANT TO IMPRESS UPON YOUR MIND THAT THE MUNCIE WATER WORKS COMPANY HAS RUN CONSTANTLY DAY AND NIGHT 365 DAYS PER YEAR FOR MORE THAN 36 YEARS, HAS NEVER PASSED A DIVIDEND AND ITS INCOME HAS IN NO WAY BEEN AFFECTED BY DEPRESSION. Ordinary depressions that close up or halt other lines of business is never felt by the Muncie Water Works Company. Our income grows with increased population. Our income now is sufficient to enable us to borrow $250,000 and deposit every penny of it on open account and go right on paying 8% every ninety days indefinitely. In the face of these facts, wouldn't you like to be a partner in this business?

So you can readily see we do not need money for operating our present plant. During our 36 years of operation we have accumulated over $86,000 depreciation reserve now available for replacing any part of our plant that has served its usefulness.

We cannot sell stock at any time we desire, neither can we dictate what rate we shall charge for our water. We are subjected to a rigid investigation, by the Public Service Commission before we are allowed to issue and sell stock. The Public Service Commission allows us for rate making purposes only 7% of the total valuation of our holdings. Thus you will see it is impossible for us to create a big surplus and therefore when it becomes necessary for us to make extensions we must borrow the money.

Last year Muncie incorporated about 7,000 additional houses. We must extend our water mains into this new territory. The Public Service Commission has authorized us to issue and sell $250,000 of our $100 par value 8% accumulative first preferred stock and this money is to be used for making these extensions.

This stock is tax free to citizens of Indiana, non assessable, pays its dividends every ninety days; next dividend date December 15th, sold for cash $100.00 par on the partial payment plan, $5 cash and $5 per month per share. We allow 8% on payments as they are made. We do not charge interest on the money you owe us.

We will at your option negotiate the sale of any stock you own issued by the Muncie Water Works Company and give you back every cent you put in with all accrued interest up to the day we make the transfer. We can prove upon request our ability to render you this service, gratis.

Our General Manager of the Securities Department will be in Rushville and vicinity Thursday and Friday of this week, and will take up the matter in detail with anyone desiring further information. For appointment, address Muncie Water Works Company, care of Republican.

RENEWAL OF WAGE FIGHT LOOMING UP

Apparent When Seventy-five Western Railroads Ask Employees to Accept Reductions

CRISIS IS NOT EXPECTED

Chicago, Nov. 16—Renewed fight of railroads and their employees before the U. S. Railroad labor board over wages loomed today.

This followed action of seventy-five western roads in asking workers of all classes to accept wage reductions.

It is not believed that a crisis such as that of Oct. 30 when a strike was narrowly averted will be precipitated. This will be the procedure in the present case:

Railroad executives and representatives of unions will meet and bargain over wages. If they are unable to agree then the case is automatically thrown before the labor board.

The Labor Board is expected to hand down soon a decision on new working agreements.

The "policy meeting" of 600 officers of the engineers and firemen's brotherhoods was over today. Steps to be taken in the most recent demand for wage cuts were discussed.

PROPOSAL MADE TO PARLEY BY CHINA

FIRST MEETING A SUCCESS

Leaguers Go to Milroy Tonight For "Win My Chum" Week Program

Presented Regarding Her Future Stand in the Far East to Arms Limitation Conference

FIRST SECRET SESSION HELD

Far Eastern Questions Sole Topic of Discussion—United States to Reveal Its Views

(By United Press)

Washington, Nov. 16.—China today offered a proposal on her future stand in the Far East to the arms limitation conference.

The proposal was presented by the Chinese delegation at the secret meeting of the conference sitting as a committee on the Far Eastern questions in the Pan-American Union Building here.

The conference entered into the intricate questions of the Pacific and Far Eastern problems. Far Eastern questions were to be almost the sole topic of discussion today, it was stated, with indication the United States will in the near future reveal officially its views on these problems.

For the first time the conference met in a guarded secret session. Shortly after 11 a. m. Secretary Hughes, chairman of the committee on Far East and Pacific questions called the conference to order. The entire membership of the conference was on hand. The doors were shut to the public. Newspaper men were forbidden to question delegates as they entered or left the committee session.

The Japanese group was the first to enter. Swift United States armed motor trucks brought them to the building and deposited them at the foot of a stairway where they quickly disappeared. Premier Briand rode up in a huge French car.

Land disarmament—heretofore submerged by the vaster problem of naval limitation—is destined to play an important and perhaps a troublesome part in the arms parity.

A clash between British and French viewpoints is in the cards.

America was said to be able to smooth out the clouds. Otherwise a storm is likely.

France wants to keep her army of 800,000; England wants the armament.

TWO OBJECTIONS TO U. S. PROGRAM

Opposition to Large Submarine Navies and Reluctance to Close Naval Yards

THIRD BEING PROMULGATED

Japan Believed to be Against Forty Percent Inferiority Allotted To Her Navy

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for United Press)

Opposition to large submarine navies and a reluctance to close down naval construction yards are the only concrete objections that have been made to the American disarmament program. A third objection is being promulgated apparently by Japan against the forty percent inferiority allotted to her navy.

Under sea fleets can be reduced in size without jeopardy to America. But entire elimination of the large offensive types from future naval programs might handicap America's strategy. These are the only submarines that America could use for trans-Pacific operations. As long, therefore, as warships are permitted at all for national defense, the super submarine must have a high place in the American scale.

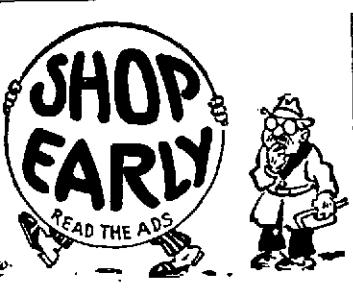

The British strategic position is different and requires surface craft for protecting food ships rather than submarine. Keeping naval construction yards closed during the holiday period is a matter that may become fundamental in the American plan. All the nations must take risks in that respect.

It is a greater risk for a country like England that has never more than seven weeks food supply on hand than for a nation not depending on overseas sources for its food. Nevertheless, the British mercantile shipbuilding business is so vast that it might be utilized to maintain the morale and skill of naval dock yard workers. Under normal working of the Hughes plan, repair yards for war ships will be open, enabling construction working men to keep themselves from forgetting their trade during the ten year holiday.

A Japanese request for a closer approximation to America's naval strength is capable only of very limited adjustment. At present Japan's sea power is about fifty-five percent of America's. The U. S. voluntarily has offered to Japan a five percent increase. Another five percent advance might be made, but beyond that the vastly greater interests in America has to protect must be given primary consideration.

The remains were brought to his home in Rushville, and the funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Main Street Christian church in charge of the Rev. W. A. Young, assisted by the Rev. L. E. Brown. The deceased was a member of the Plum Creek Christian church, and had held his membership in that church since 1879. Friends may call at the late service any time up until one o'clock Thursday.

The deceased leaves a widow and one son, George Billings of Union township. Two brothers, Francis and William of Howard county, a sister, Mrs. Jane Mauler of Marion, and a half sister, Mrs. Pearl Smith of Kokomo, also survives.

ENTHUSIASM OVER NEW COUNTRY CLUB

Stock Members in Meeting Tuesday Night See Nothing But Bright Future For Project

ONE-THIRD OF MONEY IS IN

Directors Urge Payments Be Made at Once So That Site May be Bought and Work Started

Great enthusiasm and optimism regarding the future was displayed at the meeting of the stock members of the Rush County Country Club in the court house assembly room Tuesday night and plans were made for hasty completion of the details incident to the purchase of the land and the beginning of its improvement so that the club will be ready for use next summer.

The meeting was called for the formal election of three directors to succeed R. L. Tompkins, Will O. Fenner and I. L. Endres. They were unanimously elected and the board will meet tonight to elect officers and organize for the coming year.

When the club was organized a year nine directors were elected, three to serve one year, three to serve two years and three to serve three years. Charles A. Frazer, secretary, reported today that $5,000 had been received in payment on stock, but more money than this will be required for the directors to close the contract for the land at once. It was hoped that several thousand dollars would be forthcoming today so that they could go ahead with the project.

It was stated at the meeting last night that 157 stock members had been obtained, which gives a working capital of $15,700 in addition to the preferred stock which will be sold. The directors, however, are not anxious to issue the preferred stock any sooner than is necessary because interest at six percent begins just as soon as it is issued and starts a drain on the club treasury.

In the interests of economy, the directors had hoped the stock members subscriptions would come in fast enough so that it would not be necessary to use any of the preferred stock in buying a site. The preferred stock can then be utilized in improving the grounds and building the golf course and club house. For this reason, directors earnestly urged today stock members who are able to pay for their stock, to do so at once, and others who wish to use the de-

SAILOR WELL KNOWN HERE DIES IN WEST

William Crawford, Brother of Ottis Crawford, Expires at Mare Island, Calif., Hospital

TOOK SICK WHILE AT SEA

Word has been received here of the death of William Fern Crawford, formerly of Shelbyville and well known here, at the navy hospital at Mare Island, California, of pulmonary tuberculosis. He had visited his brother, Ottis Crawford, in Rushville frequently.

Crawford joined the navy last April and arrived at Shelbyville on a furlough in July on the morning of his mother's funeral, news of her death having failed to reach him. He spent the remainder of the furlough here with his brother and two nieces, Mrs. J. F. Barnett and Mrs. Herbert Woods. After leaving here, he was taken sick on his ship, the "Penn," while enroute to California via the Panama canal. He was transferred to the hospital ship "Mercy" at San Pedro, California, and then to the Mare Island hospital.

The body is expected to arrive at the home of the deceased's brother, 333 East Tenth street, Friday or Saturday. Funeral arrangements will be made on arrival of the remains and interment will take place at Asbury cemetery, one half mile northwest of Morristown. The deceased is survived by his father, Richard Crawford of Shelbyville, one brother and two sisters.

The deceased leaves a widow and one son, George Billings of Union township. Two brothers, Francis and William of Howard county, a sister, Mrs. Jane Mauler of Marion, and a half sister, Mrs. Pearl Smith of Kokomo, also survives.

PIG ROAST AND INITIATION

Modern Woodmen Will Have 32 Candidates Thursday Night

The Modern Woodmen are planning for a big time here Thursday night when the pig roast and class adoption will be held, and 32 candidates will be initiated at this time. The work will begin at 7:30 promptly, and all members are urged to attend. State officers of the lodge will be here to assist, and at ten o'clock the pig roast banquet will be served at the Odd Fellows dining hall.

An invitation to all members of camps outside of Rushville was issued today, and it is expected that a record attendance will participate in the initiation and banquet.

EX-SERVICE MEN GIVEN SUPPORT

Phase of Red Cross Work Advanced as Reason For Rush County People Continuing as Members

REVIEW OF YEAR'S ACTIVITY

Home Service Division, Under Direction of George C. Wyatt, Aids Many Former Soldiers

The work of the Rush county chapter of the Red Cross among former soldiers is advanced as one of the reasons why Rush county people should continue to support it by joining or renewing their annual membership during the annual Roll Call, which is now being conducted.

No definite reports have been received at headquarters in the county recorder's office, but it is known that a canvass is being started in some sections on the county. Thirteen membership renewals have been received at headquarters up to today, and others who have not been visited by canvassers are urged to call at headquarters and leave their dollar membership fee.

Warden H. Wyatt, Rushville city chairman, is preparing to start the canvass of the city at once. There will be one solicitor in every city block and the appeal will be carried into every home.

A letter was mailed to every township chairman today, urging that a report be made by Saturday so that it will be possible to determine what progress is being made in the campaign.

The Rush county chapter has extended or stands ready to extend aid to ex-service men in all matters relating to compensation, medical treatment, vocational training and many other problems.

Much of the work now being done everywhere in behalf of the disabled is being done either directly by the Red Cross or by organizations of former service men using Red Cross funds for this purpose. A good example of this co-operation of the Red Cross with other organizations is found in the "clean-up squads" of the American Legion. These squads which have done good work in establishing a direct line of communication between the disabled and the Federal Veterans' Bureau at Washington are financed by the Red Cross.

PARLEY IS DOWN TO "BRASS TACKS"

Speech Making and Hand Clapping Are Done With and Period of Negotiation Begins

REAL TEST FOR CONFERENCE

Two Great Problems Yet to Come up Are Land Armament and Pacific And Far Eastern Question

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16.—Behind closed doors the arms limitation conference today was at work.

The speech making and the hand-clapping are done with for a time. The period of negotiation or "international poker" is here.

Upon what happens in committee meetings from now on will depend the success or failure of the conference.

Although the conference made notable progress in its first two sessions through the acceptance in principle by the four great powers of America's arms limitation program, much work in secret remains to be done before a complete agreement can be reached. Two great problems are waiting to come before the conference.

These are:

1.—The Pacific and Far Eastern situation.

2.—Limitation of land armament.

Pacific and Far Eastern questions it was learned, probably will be brought up first in committee. Secretary of State Hughes, it is believed, will not place America views on the conference in the bold, open manner in which he announced this country's program for limitation of naval armament.

Limitation of land armament probably will be brought before the conference by Premier Briand in an open session.

Several gatherings were scheduled for the day. First was a meeting of the full conference as a committee on Far Eastern and Pacific questions. This meeting, held behind the guarded portals of the Pan American building was expected to develop the American program for handling the delicate political and economic questions relating to China the open door in Asia, the Anglo-Japanese alliance and Pacific ocean trade and communications.

While the conferees began their work on the Far Eastern problems naval experts began examination of the proposed modifications of the Hughes naval policy plan as submitted yesterday by Great Britain and Japan.

In addition a number of conferences among delegates were scheduled. These "conversations" among the old world statesmen in which they play the international game according to the old time rules are likely to have an important bearing on the final outcome.

In addition to the statesmen accredited to the conference, Washington is filled with a host of unofficial delegates from other capitals, mostly the smaller states who want to impress their views as to territorial lines, economics, treaty relations, railroads, finances, food and a host of other institutions upon the main conference.

The impression appears to prevail that the present conference marks America's definite entry into world affairs to stay and everybody who Continued on Page Two

COUNTY CORN CROP AVERAGES 42 BUSHELS

Rush Given This Rating in Indiana Crop Report, Only Five Others Showing Better

CROP POOREST SINCE 1917

The Rush county corn crop averaged forty-two bushels to the acre, and the potato crop average was forty-five bushels, according to the Indiana crop report, just issued by the division of agricultural statistics, Indiana Legislative Reference Bureau. The clover seed yield in the county was 1.1 bushels to the acre, the report says. It is also announced that four percent of this fall's corn crop was cut for silage.

With five exceptions, the local corn yield is the best in the state. Hancock leads all other counties with an average of forty-four bushels and Madison county reports an average of forty-three. Fayette ties with Rush, also having an average of forty-two bushels.

A number of counties are credited with having an average of forty and forty-one bushels. The corn crop now being harvested is, with the exception of the 1917 crop, the poorest in point of quality that has been produced on Indiana farms in many years, although the average yield is practically the same as the 10-year average. With more than fifty percent husked, the total indicated crop amounts to 163,620,000 bushels on an average yield of 36 bushels per acre.

my reduced, holding it and the policies behind it are a stumbling block to British commerce and industry.

Premier Briand believes he can reach the American ear better now than ever before. He will speak at the next open session presenting his arguments for maintaining France's army. It intends to picture France confronted with the "German menace". France entrusted with enforcing the Versailles treaty, facing a hostile people across the Rhine; France standing guard over civilization against the Bolshevik threat.

He does not intend to demand a treaty or guaranty from America as a substitute for the land armaments.

"We will ask nothing", Briand declared, pounding the table before him.

But Briand wants to show the "why" for the $60,000 men—arguing that they are part of the play for keeping world peace.

OLD TIME FOX DRIVE

Brookville, Ind., Nov. 15.—An old time fox drive has been arranged for Thursday, November 24, and it is expected that many will take part. In the event the weather is not suitable on that date the drive will be held Saturday, November 26.

The north line of the drive will follow Blue Creek from St. Peters to the Whitewater river and the east line will be Whitewater. The drive starts at 9 a.m.

Foxes are numerous this year. A big catch and plenty of fun is expected. Persons taking part in the drive will not be permitted to carry guns.

Cane Craze Caused By Foreign Envoys

By DAVID L. BLUMFELD

Washington, Nov. 16—Walking sticks and arms conferences seem about as far apart as Cabbages and Kings or the Carpenter's sealing wax and Alice in Wonderland. As a matter of fact, there's a very close alliance between the two. The Arms conference is going to set the fashion in carrying sticks. Every diplomat from across the seas has brought two or three. Lord Lee of Fordham for instance, carried his when he climbed out of his Pullman at the Union station here. The Japanese delegates all carried them on their arrival. Secretary Hughes has adopted a black stick with a crook handle. Sir Auckland Geddes has carried one for years and years, as all good Britshers do. Harding Root, and even Secretary Weeks have developed the habit.

Everybody who is anybody in Washington today is carrying a stick. The fashionable men's shops advertise the latest from Piccadilly in walking sticks in their windows and you may see literally scores of young men—and old ones, too, for that matter, emerging from the government offices here for their luncheon with sticks in the crook of their elbows as if they had carried such ornaments all their lives.

Americans generally say that they have no time to carry such useless things as walking sticks. The American who goes to London or Paris buys himself a walking stick. When he gets home he drops it like a hot brick—presumably for fear of being laughed at.

Today he has has pulled it out into use again. In the rooms of the government offices here where formerly one saw but hats and coats hanging on pegs one now can count the stickless pegs on one's fingers.

HAS WELL DEFINED PLAN OF ACTION

France's Participation in Arms Conference Will Not be Postponed Beyond Another Plenary Session

BRIAND TO LEAVE NOV. 23

Delegates Hope America Will Propose Further Reduction in Land Armaments on Part of That Nation

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16—France's active participation in the limitation of arms conference will not be postponed beyond another plenary session.

A certain genial Celtic gentleman didn't get himself a vote of confidence and came 3,000 miles just to sit on the sidelines. Premiers with a Celtic strain and an unruly opposition don't do that.

One of these days, today, maybe when attention is focused on Japan and England and anticipated replies to the Hughes' naval proposals Monsieur Briand is liable to slip down from his perch on the fence alongside of half a dozen little lookers-on nations and inquire if this is a private dispute. He may also remind the rest that he's going home about the 23rd of November, and that it might be a good idea to start talking about France's problems.

The French delegates hope the lead for such a discussion may come from America in the form of a proposal to France which will permit of further reduction in land armaments on the part of that nation. But if the proposal doesn't come, Briand may take the initiative.

The French premier has prepared a well defined plan of action. He knows just how far France is prepared to go which is just about where she is at present unless guarantees of a substantial nature are forthcoming.

Nothing is to be gained by approaching the subject delicately. Briand has as good as promised to go at it in the "Hughes-way."

The attitude of France will be that she already has reduced her army to the absolute limit of national security at the moment. She would prefer to exchange a cut in her present land armaments for a guarantee from the great powers. If Premier Briand could go back to France with some sort of promise from England and America along the lines of the tri-partite agreement approved by former President Wilson, it would be no inconsiderable feather in his political cap.

WILL NOT CANCEL THE JAP ALLIANCE

Great Britain Must Have a Satisfactory Substitute From The Arms Conference

WANTS AMERICA INCLUDED

Alliance Held Essential Unless a Practical Agreement on Far East is Reached

By CARL D. GROAT
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16—Great Britain will not cancel the Anglo-Japanese alliance unless she gets at the arms conference a satisfactory substitute. This emanated today from persons conversant wholly with the British position. What the empire wants is an "agreement"—alliance is avoided as repugnant to American ideas—among America, England, Japan and perhaps China.

Qualified authorities made it plain that England, does not even dream of ditching the alliance upon request from America until adequate scheme for replacing it is presented.

"We will not be coerced by America into doing that", said one Britisher, while others held that the alliance is essential unless a practical agreement as to the Far Eastern question is reached.

The American delegation is known to be favorable to an agreement amongst all the powers interested in the Far East—an agreement capable of supplanting the alliance by offering sufficient guarantee to England and to make it worth while to scrap what has become repugnant to America and even a source of displeasure within parts of the empire.

America is expected to present a Far Eastern program based on these lines:

An "agreement" among the powers affected, as to Far Eastern questions, backed by an international council of some sort for adjudication of Eastern difficulties.

Adoption of the open door policy in the east, with guarantees for the political integrity of China and Russia, the latter's interest to be safeguarded by the other nations until she is able to come back into the international family.

SAYS MARINES WERE EATEN BY HAITAINS

H. M. Pelkington Testifies Before Senate Committee Regarding Conditions on Island

PRIMITIVE IDEA IS BLAMED

Washington, Nov. 16—American marines after being put to death by torture were eaten by Haitian bandits, H. M. Pelkington of New York charged today before the senate committee investigating conditions in the Island.

Instances of cannibalism cited by Pelkington were those of Private Lawrence, a marine who was tortured to death and his body eaten by Lieut. Muth, whose body was eaten after he had been slain.

"Oh, there is nothing vicious about Haitian bandits," sarcastically remarked Pelkington. "Even the persons who killed and ate the marines were the most amiable chaps."

Pelkington said the natives have the primitive notion that when they eat human flesh the courage of their victim is transmitted to them. The witness told the committee that the Americans are partly responsible for the antagonism of the natives because of the failure of the Americans to understand the psychology of the situation. He said the French had mistreated the natives until they feared similar treatment from the American forces.

Our Uncle Sam
Is Big Investor

Washington, Nov. 16.—Uncle Sam is quite a capitalist and investor. Your Uncle holds securities, which of course in his possession are tax free, amounting to a grand total of $11,326,731,680. At least he had investments of this sum at the close of the last fiscal year. Since then there have been some changes, but the gross total is about the same. The list at the end of the year as compiled by the Treasury showed the following.

Obligations of foreign governments held against much discussed foreign loans, $9,434,774,829.

Foreign obligations received on account of sales of war surplus property by War Department $562,781,704.

Same by the Navy Department, $2,226,710.

Foreign obligations received on account of relief work $84,093,966.

Capital stock of war emergency corporations, $268,550,377.

Obligations of railroads and equipment trust certificates held, $375,357,550.

Obligations of carriers under transportation act $305,080,103.

Capital stock of federal land banks $6,700,675.

Federal Farm loan bonds, $183,035,000.

Domestic obligations received by the Secretaries of War and Navy and Shipping Board for surplus materials, $103,000,000.

Gifford Pinchot Carries On

The United States must prepare to cultivate its own timber, or eventually go without lumber. We cannot depend on other countries for timber, because the shortage is world-wide. Even if all of Canada's timber were available to us, it would not meet our needs for more than twenty years."

These words by Gifford Pinchot, consistent fighter for a real forest policy, before the Forest Policy committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in New York the other day, are food for the thoughtful.

The significance of this statement is not concerned alone with the lumber shortage, housing problems, etc.

One of the items of consumption of timber, perhaps the most devastating represents pure waste, and is growing at the rate of 100 percent a year.

The use of paper cartons and containers for food and drugs, takes from our supply of timber three times the wood pulp required for the newspapers:

And the average large newspaper requires the timber from 25 to 30 acres for each day's edition.

Are we to continue to pay ridiculously high prices for food in the pretty paper package, and pay constantly rising rentals?

Or are we, like the common sense Americans we used to be, going to buy our food in bulk and release the wood for some of the 5,000,000 houses desperately needed in this country?

Our Cards on The Table

The Japanese ambassador at Washington is refreshingly frank and to the point. He suggests that the Americans and Japanese could come to a better understanding if the practice of backbiting could be eliminated.

Possibly he is right, but we imagine his remarks would be applicable to Japan as well as to this country. Nations and people have a right to express their opinions in a straight forward and manly way, and it is not to be expected that they will always agree. But backbiting is conducive to friction and trouble. No good ever comes from it.

If we don't want our women to marry Japanese men that is our business. If the Japanese don't want our men to marry their women, that is their business. Neither has a right to object, although we understand that is one of the reasons the Japanese have for their feeling of resentment toward us.

Our cards are on the table gentlemen of Nippon. Put yours there and we will have less cause for future trouble.

Writing to the New York Tribune Harold Scarborough says "disintegration and not revolt is the chief menace to soviet rule in Russia." The poor creatures have been so harried by terrorism and weakened by starvation that they have neither the courage nor the strength to revolt.

A prominent financial paper tells of large Wall Street operators patronizing lunch rooms and cafeterias instead of indulging in the more formal lunches that have hitherto been the vogue. This may be an effort to help along the movement for reduced cost of living.

The play in the arms conference has been largely from the bleachers. It is now time for the delegates to show a little team work since they have become acquainted with the signals.

If this meeting in Washington is a success, William Jennings for one time at least, will qualify for membership in the "I Told You So Club."

We all have something in common if the farmers of Indiana, in session in Indianapolis are seeking a way to make more money.

The doctrine that all men are born equal may be all right, but the fellow who depends upon it to keep up with the push gets left.

Forget your last year's winter hat. You will look a lot handsomer to the dealer if you wear a new one.

True, love may make the world go round, but it keeps a bunch of coin to keep going.

Current Comment

Defeat of the N. P. League
(Kansas City Star)

The Nonpartisan League like the Populist uprising in Kansas, was essentially a protest rather than a practical constructive movement. The protest has been made. Now comes the need for more effective leadership. That is the reason for the political overturning in the North Dakota recall election of last week.

The chief grievance of the wheat farmers of the state was over the grading of wheat by the purchasers in the Twin Cities. The elevator companies were autocratic in their attitude. The farmers felt they were being unjustly treated and that they had no recourse.

Out of this grievance largely grew the program for state owned elevators and mills, and for general enlargement of state activities. But governments are notoriously wasteful and inefficient in conducting business. The men in "charge" in North Dakota were predominantly of the agitator sort, and were not qualified for industrial leadership. The state bank they organized had difficulties. The industrial projects they attempted proved expensive beyond expectations, and of uncertain success. Taxes shot up and the hoped-for benefits did not materialize.

Behind the whole program was this fundamental trouble—lack of diversified farming. In most of the state the farmer is solely a wheat raiser. This involves two difficulties:

Raising spring wheat requires only four or five months work a year; nobody in this age can expect to earn a good living unless he has a chance for productive labor over a larger share of the year. And if wheat conditions are bad, either from weather, or from the standpoint of labor, transportation or markets, the farmer is up against it.

This basic problem the Nonpartisan League program failed to take into account. It sought relief through governmental activity from a situation that requires individual effort.

The protest movement has helped correct the grain trading abuse. But the field for effective protest is limited. From an outside standpoint, the problem of the new state administration will be to abandon the extravagant government projects, get down to brass tacks and furnish leadership toward obtaining that larger diversification of farm business that is required to put the North Dakota farmer on a basis of permanent prosperity.

VARSITY WILL STEP
OUT FOR FIRST TIME

Accompanied by Band and Reeters,
High School Team Goes to
Martinsville Friday

SECONDS TO MEET GLENWOOD

The Rushville high school basketball team will step out again Friday night in real company when a journey over to Martinsville for a game with one of the fastest teams in that section of the state.

Several routers are planning to accompany the team and arrangements have been made to take the 20 piece high school band along for the trip, and help the locals in winning the game if possible. Martinsville defeated Greenfield by a close score last Friday night at Greenfield.

The showing that the locals made against Columbus last Friday is very encouraging for a close game at Martinsville, and the red and black players will make a big attempt to win their first game away from home.

While the varsity squad is away from home, the second team also will take the road and journey over to Glenwood to play the first team of that place, having won a close game from them over here a few weeks ago.

Odd Fellows Basketball Team Organized Again This Year and Will Play First Game Tuesday

SANDUSKY IS COMING HERE

Many Improvements Made at Modern Appliance Building Which Will Now Accommodate 1,000

The Odd Fellows basketball team will open the season next Tuesday night, November 22, at the Modern Appliance "gym," meeting the fast Sandusky Independents; it was announced today. A curtain-raiser will also be arranged. The local team has been practicing for some time and indications point to a winning aggregation. Last year the team won nineteen out of twenty-four games and they are out this year to maintain their record.

The Sandusky team is practically the same that represented the Sandusky high school last season and should prove a big drawing card. The Marlow brothers are playing forward positions and stars of former high school teams there are in the line-up. Last year Sandusky won the sectional high school tourney here and went to the finals in the state meet.

A strong schedule is being arranged for the locals and games will be played on Tuesday nights as was the custom last year. Russel Kirkpatrick is acting as coach for the local squad, which numbers twelve men, and Russell Titworth is captain.

With the opening of the season, extensive improvements have been made at the Modern Appliance building and the "gym" is one of the best in this section of the country. The seating capacity has been enlarged to accommodate approximately 1,000 persons and the dressing rooms have been rearranged and shower baths installed. A new entrance has been provided, on the east side of the building and a large lobby is provided. The building will be comfortably heated for all games, it is announced, and no expense will be spared to give the fans real basketball at all times.

Plans for the season include a sectional tournament to be held here February 10 and 11, in which independent teams from several counties will take part. This will be one of the largest sectional meetings in the state and arrangements will be made to handle large crowds. Details of the tourney will be announced later.

Many communications have been received regarding games among the number being one from the famous En-Roe aggregation of Indianapolis. This team will be booked again this season and the locals are confident of giving them a battle for the honors.

Further announcement will be made of the plans for the opening night, November 22.

The Carthage Yankee Five basketball team hung up a great victory at Carthage last night, when they defeated the Y. M. C. A. leaders of Indianapolis by the close score of 24 to 21. The game was hard fought from start to finish, and the first half ended in a tie, 12 to 12.

Chambers at forward scored 16 points for Carthage, and Simmonds, center, scored the other eight points. Starbuck, former Purdue player and Burlingame starred for the visitors. The Indianapolis team had good team work, but could not connect for enough after having plenty of throws at the basket.

Play in Preliminary For State Independent Tournament at Carthage and Rushville

FINALS SET FOR FEB. 23, 24, 25

Last Year 238 Teams Participated in Tourney Which Was Won by Trafalgar Five

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16—Plans are all made, dates all set, district tournaments scheduled and everything is ready for the third annual Indiana amateur independent basketball championship, where the independent champions of the Hoosier state will be decided in a "championship way".

Twenty sectional meets will be held over the state and the winners of these sectional meets will meet at Indianapolis on February 23, 24 and 25th to decide the state title. The district tournaments will be held at Frankfort, Indianapolis, Gary, Terre Haute, Auburn, Carthage, Thorntown, Rushville, Bellmead, Converse, Boswell, Sullivan, Sandborn, Plymouth, Valley Mills, Orleans, Brownstown, Scottsburg, Greensburg, Crawfordsville, Vincennes and Hamilton.

Last season, 238 teams took part in the great classic, and it is expected that at least 400 quintets in the state will battle for the crown this season. The tournament is open to every independent team in the state with an amateur standing.

The annual affair has proven a great success as it gives the ex-high school and ex-college men an honor to fight for, as when these men were members of a school team. The tournament games, both the sectional and state final meets, have brought forth good basketball which was clean and all players showed good sportsmanship.

Last season the state championship was won by the Trafalgar Independent team. This team represented a town of only 400 population. The Indiana Amateur Independent Basket Ball Tournament is the largest state tournament in the country for independent teams.

Wayne Emmelmann of Indianapolis, who is at the head of the project, asks that all teams be entered as early as possible. Practically every team is now organized and it is expected that all entries will be in by the first of next month.

All teams expecting to take part in the tournament are requested to write Wayne Emmelmann, 219 West Washington street, Indianapolis.

SPRING TRAINING
PLANS ARE MADE

Most of Major League Clubs Have

HUGGINS MAY STAY ON JOB

Talk About McGraw Retiring is Not Taken Seriously—Tris Speaker
Expected to Remain

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Nov. 16—with politics a dead issue and all of the magnates calling each other "little pal", baseball has nothing to talk about now but spring training plans.

Most of the major clubs have already selected the southern port in which they will set their 1922 candidates ready.

The world's champion Giants are to return to San Antonio and they probably will work their way north with the White Sox. The Yanks are looking for a place in Texas and probably will decide upon Houston. The American league champions will play a pre-season series with the St. Louis Cards and the Brooklyn Robins.

The Cincinnati Reds are going to Mineral Springs, the Indians to Dallas and the Pirates and the Red Sox will return to Hot Springs. Ty Cobb's Tigers will work out again in San Antonio. From the absence of talk about managerial changes, it seems that all of the club owners will stick to their last season's pilots.

Despite all talk to the contrary, it is almost certain that Miller Huggins can manage his champion Yanks again if he cares to and the annual talk about John McGraw retiring from the management of the Giants is not being taken seriously. Johnny Everts probably will return to the National league champions as a coach, although there has been some talk that they would get another managerial job if George

Cohan is successful in buying a franchise.

Hugo Bezdek former manager of the Pirates and the coach of the great Penna state football team, may return to baseball according to a fairly reliable report. It is said that Bezdek is interested with a syndicate that is looking for a franchise and that he would spend his summer baseballing without giving up his football work.

There was much talk at the end of last season that Tris Speaker would give up baseball, but Cleveland fans are expecting the Indian chief to be back in his war paint in the spring.

Caused Loss of Voice, Choking and Throbbing, Bluffton Lady Reports Relief. External Treatment Used

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true. Mrs. J. H. Barrett, Bluffton, Ind., says in her home paper, The News: "One bottle Sealed Quadruple has reduced my goitre 1½ inches. You can now see my neck again and my voice is clear. I don't have that awful throbbing in my neck or choking and smothering when I lie down. You may publish this letter and if anyone writes, I will be glad to tell them more fully about my experience."

Sorbo Quadruple comes in small bottles containing enough for most cases. It will not stain or irritate. Does not interfere with other medications. Leaves no oily, greasy feeling. Leaves no oil in hospital, normal condition. Requires ten minutes daily.

PREDICTS SUCCESS FOR CONFERENCE

Bryan Says Acceptance by British and Japanese Assures Results From Discussions

NAVAL PROGRAM FACTOR

Battleship Reduction Accepted as Determining Line to be Followed In Other Matters

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN (Copyright 1921 by U. P.)

Washington, Nov. 16.—The acceptances made by Great Britain and Japan assure the success of the arms limitation conference.

If nothing more is done, it would be an epoch-making gathering, for, as Arthur Balfour declared, the work already done surpassed any reduction in armament known in all the world's history.

But what is scarcely less important everyone seems to accept the reduction in battleships as determining the line to be followed on other matters. The reduction of land forces can scarcely be less in proportion with the enthusiastic reception given to the scrapping of battleships.

France, at once, interpreted the action taken in regard to navies as indicating what must be expected in the reduction of armies and Premier Briand gave notice of his desire to discuss his government's position on this subject.

Secretary Hughes assured him that an early opportunity would be given.

Now, that the keynote has been sounded and the character of the proceedings determined, attention can be turned to less important things.

Nothing, of course, could compare in importance with the substances of the acceptances made by Great Britain and Japan, but there was a minor matter which aroused universal interest.

It was the difference in the oratory of Balfour and Premier Briand.

Mr. Balfour has a fine face and his long experience in public life gives him ease of manner. He is a man of great intelligence and wide information. His speech was all that could be asked. It contained strong sentences; it was well put together; it was rhetorically excellent. His language was in keeping with his exalted thought and the audience not only listened intently, but was anxious to applaud.

The crowd was actually disappointed that it could not unpeel his speech with applause, as it did the speech of Secretary Hughes, but Mr. Balfour gave them no invitation. His sentences concluded in a way that prevented a demonstration.

WATERWAY TO SEA SUBJECT FOR FARMERS

W. L. Harding, Former Governor of Iowa, Discusses St. Lawrence Project at State Convention

GOV. McCRAY A SPEAKER

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16.—Questions of taxation and discussion of the St. Lawrence river waterway to the sea marked the second day of the convention of the Indiana Federation of Farmer's Association.

John G. Brown, president of the organization, was prepared to take up taxation matters and outline how the farmer regards the present system of taxation.

W. L. Harding, former governor of Iowa, was scheduled to tell the farmers how opening the St. Lawrence to sea-going vessels would open up greater fields for them through revised transportation methods.

The farmer is getting the "bad end of the bargain," Governor McCray declared, addressing the farmers late yesterday. Labor costs and taxes should come down, the governor said, if the farmers are to benefit. McCray told the farmers he was going to Washington last night in an effort to procure help for them.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 16.—One passenger was killed when Iron Mountain passenger train No. 136 southbound, was held up by two masked negroes near Malvern, Ark., today, according to advices received here. A request that bloodhounds be rushed to the scene was received by Little Rock police.

The drinking situation at the present time in our colleges is a serious one," the message said. Greek letter fraternities flooded the postoffice with 2,000 copies of the appeal.

Arbuckle's Wife Ready To Put Husband's Fate in Hands of Women

Minta Durfee Says She is Not Afraid of Own Sex Sitting in Judgment in Fatty's Case—Jury Expected to Include at Least Three Women

By M. D. TRACY
C. P. Staff Correspondent

San Francisco, Nov. 16—Minta Durfee, wife of Roscoe Arbuckle is ready to place his fate in the hands of women she has never seen.

She told the United Press today that she is willing to see "Fatty" defending himself before women jurors on charges of causing the death of Virginia Rappe.

The jury to try Arbuckle for manslaughter, which was expected to be complete today was believed to be certain to include at least three women.

"I am not afraid to have women on the jury," Minta Durfee said. "In fact I welcome them, for they will understand."

"Roscoe is just a great big boy to me and when these women sitting as jurors hear his story they will see it the way I see it; they will know he never could do the terrible things with which he is charged. They will vindicate him.

"The world will never know what Roscoe has suffered. He wants the wishes of good people women and children especially. As I sit in court I sometimes become afraid. When they call a new juror I have a feeling like stage fright. And then my fears leave me when I look at Roscoe in front of me. I remember that he is innocent and that no harm can come to him."

"You know this trial is really a relief. I am glad it has started."

"There was a possibility that the prosecution would begin introduction of its sensational evidence late this afternoon. Eleven jurors, five of them married women, already had been used and it was believed the defense would use three or four probably dismissing at least two of the women."

HEARING STARTS IN COURT OF APPEALS

Strike of All Miners is Threatened if Judge Anderson's Check-off Ruling is Upheld

STAY GRANTED ON NOV. 3

Chicago, Nov. 16—Hearing on the injunction against the check-off system at the mines by Federal Judge Anderson, Indianapolis, was up in the U. S. court of appeals here today.

Judge Anderson issued an order restraining mine operators from collecting union dues as provided in agreements with unions. A temporary stay order was issued by the court of appeals here Nov. 3, and the case set for hearing today.

Most of the 35,000 miners in central states who struck following Judge Anderson's injunction, returned to the pits when the stay order was granted.

Strike of all miners is threatened if the court of appeals upholds Judge Anderson's injunction.

MINE BOSS SAYS HE WAS HELPLESS

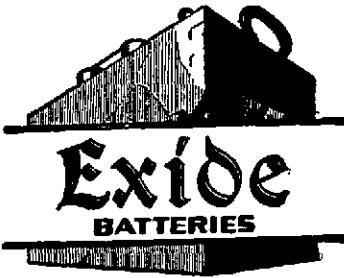

Arizona Man Was Simply Down and Out and Couldn't Even Move Himself—Feels Fine Now

Harry E. Scott, a well-known mine boss, whose address is Box 683, Tombstone, Arizona, writes:

"I was down and out nearly all the time with rheumatism and finally got to where I couldn't move, even to feed myself. My wife thought I would never get well again, and she knew my condition better than anyone else."

"I was absolutely helpless when my wife started giving me Tanlac and in four days I ate a hearty meal for the first time in many months. Tanlac put me on my feet and I'm back on the job working hard and feeling just fine. I have gained eighteen pounds in weight, too."

NEW PRESIDENT TO HEAD DRIVE

Dean Stanley Coulter of Purdue Will Have Charge of the Annual Seal Campaign in State

SEAL SALE IN DECEMBER

Proceeds is For State Association The Tuberculosis Fund, to Carry on Their Work

Ft. Wayne Nov 16—Dean Stanley Coulter, acting president of Purdue University, will head the annual Christmas Seal Sale in Indiana, according to announcement today by Dr. Eric Crull, of this city, president of the State Tuberculosis association. Dr. Crull announced that Dean Coulter has accepted the chairmanship of the Christmas Seal Sale Committee, which comprises sixty-five prominent men and women of the state. The sale, to be held in December, provides the funds with which the state association carries on its year-round campaign against the "white plague."

Dean Coulter succeeds Dr. William Lowe Bryan, President of Indiana University, who was chairman of the committee last year. Dr. Crull announced that executive offices for the committee and the sale will be maintained in Indianapolis at the state association headquarters, under the direction of Murray A. Auerbach, executive secretary of the Indiana Tuberculosis Association. As in past years the state association will co-operate with the county organizations, which will sell the seals and use practically all the money raised thereby in carrying on the work against the disease.

In connection with the announcement of Dean Coulter's acceptance, Dr. Crull made public a statement by the new chairman, who says:

"It is high time that the people of Indiana realized how negligent they have been with regard to tuberculosis. They have contributed nobly to many causes including some that did not closely affect them but they have failed to protect themselves adequately from a danger, in the form of tuberculosis may be materially lessened by the contribution annually of a few dollars by every Hoosier able to spare the money."

"Last year there were 3,151 deaths in this state from tuberculosis and it is estimated that there are now about 30,000 active cases of the disease in the state. Every case is a distinct threat to the community in which it is found. Yet less than 500 beds are maintained for people suffering from the disease. Only four counties have hospitals to which a tuberculosis patient may be sent for treatment. This is truly an appalling state of affairs."

"As long as the people of the state neglect to provide facilities for the isolation and treatment of sufferers from the disease, tuberculosis will continue to be a menace and the lives of many people endangered. The death rate from tuberculosis must be reduced. It can only be reduced by the provision of facilities for treatment and by popular education in the methods of prevention. The Indiana Tuberculosis Association, supported by money obtained by the sale of Christmas Seals every year, has been carrying on a consistent campaign for years to bring about isolation and cure of existing cases and the prevention of future cases. It should have the whole-hearted support of all the people in the state."

"The Christmas Seal Sale Committee this year, working with the county organizations, appeals to the people of the state to contribute dimes where they have been contributing pennies and to contribute dollars where they have been giving dimes. Self-protection demands such action."

AMUSEMENTS

"After the Show"—Princess

Appealing, dramatic and at times highly pathetic is the theme of William deMille's new Paramount picture production of "After the Show" which will be shown at the Princess theatre today and Thursday. The story, written by Rita Weiman, deals with the stage, and Jack Holt, Lila Lee and Charles Ogle are the featured players. The scenario was written by Hazel MacDonald and Viania Knowlton.

Eileen, a chorus girl, is the protegee of Pop, an aged stage door keeper who guards her jealously from the intrigues in which stage girls and wealth boudoirs largely figure, to the disadvantage of the former. When Eileen meets Larry Taylor, who wins her love, Pop is suspicious of the truth of Larry's sentiments towards his ward. When he finds her slipping out of his life, Pop resorts to a daring expedient which has a dramatic finale. But happily, after a period of dark doubt, true love has its innings and all are rendered happy.

Shirley Mason at The Mystic

Failure is apparent not in the lexicon of Shirley Mason, the William Fox star. She will score another emphatic triumph, when she is seen today at the Mystic in "Lovetime", the romance of a maid of Savoy. The story, written by Hubert La Due, is dainty and wholesome in sentiment. The picture is handsomely staged by Howard M. Mitchell—who has directed much of Miss Mason's best work—and the entire support of the star is excellent headed by Raymond McKee as leading man.

The romance of "Lovetime" begins when an artist of noble birth, wandering into a village of Savoy under an assumed name, paints the portrait of a little peasant maid whose beauty has attracted him. The scene shift to Paris, whither she goes to escape the attentions of an aged Don Juan and where she earns a living by her ability as a singer and dancer. The young artist follows her—so does the aged Don Juan—his uncle. The latter enlists the corporation of the artist's aristocratic mother to prevent a union of the loving pair, and difficulties therupon are erected. But all comes right in the end, of course; and meanwhile, Shirley Mason is busy building up the sympathy and admiration of the audience for the pretty heroine.

"Lovetime" is to be recommended as delightful entertainment

"Irene" at The Murat

"Irene," the smart musical comedy, which comes to the Shubert-Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, for one week commencing Monday, November 21, as its Thanksgiving attraction with matinees Thursday and Saturday, has scored triumphs both in New York, Boston and Chicago and presents a pleasing refutation of the statement that musical comedy cannot be made interesting, tuneful and amusing at one and the same time. It combines all of these qualities to a superlative degree and holds an enviable place by itself in modern theatrical history.

The book, by James Montgomery, is most entertaining, telling, as it does, an interesting story of a Cinderella shop-girl who is suddenly elevated to smart society. Harry Tierney has written a melodious and captivating score with a number of refreshing bits, including "Alice Blue Gown," "We're Getting Away With It," "Sky Rocket," "Irene," "Castle of Dreams" and "The Last of Every Party," which lend themselves to exceptional dancing and singing. The rollicking lyrics are by Joseph McCarthy and the staging by Edward Royce, of the Gayely Theatre, London, is of high order.

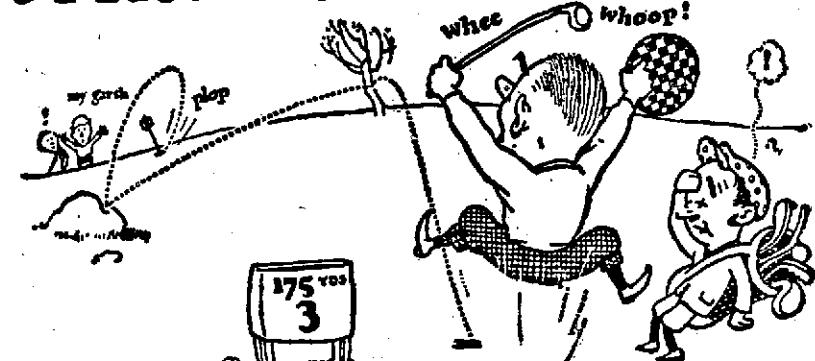

Irene is a shop girl, who, through a visit to the country home of Donald Marshall, to inspect some unsatisfactory goods, is introduced to a male modiste in search of models. Clothes may not make the man but they certainly make the girl in this instance, for, garbed in her borrowed apparel she wins the heart of both her benefactor and her audience.

This shift in the heroine's station in life is cleverly used to introduce scenes alternating between the emerald lawns of a Long Island country house and the back walls of a tenement with its dreary zigzags of fire escapes. Two of Irene's girl friends accompany her in her social ascent, but their mothers view it all suspiciously and act accordingly in diverting situations.

In England it is a custom to hang a bundle of straw under a bridge that is being repaired, as a sign that boats passing underneath should be careful.

CONTROLLED BY SOVIETS

Foreign Office in Metropole Hotel
Where The Staff Work Eat and Sleep—Food is Good

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER

Moscow, (By Mail)—Our train rolled into Moscow one afternoon, and we alighted on a platform filled with refugees.

Outside we saw what looked like an entire market-place full of them, all with packs, colored shawls, and dirty handkerchiefs or frayed caps on their heads, with an occasional drotshky standing out here and there among the crowd.

It seemed as if a whole city full of fugitives were encamped there in front of the beautiful Gothic station. This is a daily scene at train time.

Shouting and gesturing, a dozen izvozchiki (coachmen) started for me. After bargaining furiously a few minutes over the price, one of them held out his hat and all pitched their drivers' tags into it, bidding me to draw "as a newly arrived izvozchik (comrade) from America".

The driver whose tag I drew, scolded for his horse and wagon. The aged porters, with holes in their shoes stuffed with rags to keep the cold out, maneuvered our luggage upon the wagon. We—Herbert Pulitzer, of the New York World, an English newspaperman, and myself climbed on top, and, after the driver had distributed us about like balast to keep the outfit upright, we started off into the great capital of the world revolution.

We were unescorted. Our passports had been taken from us at the frontier. We had no means of identifying ourselves, if challenged by a Red Guard.

One of the first vehicles we met was an armored motor tank, in which we could see the nodding helmets of a dozen Red Guards.

Our route took us first through a deserted market zone, its long rows of bolted shop fronts presenting very much the appearance of the river market district of Chicago early in the morning when the meat trucks have just begun to circulate.

On the sidewalks an uninterrupted procession of refugees kept passing and passing, some towards the station, others away from it, some with packs, some without. Moscow seemed then, as it has since, to be a city of refugees.

Occasionally the monotony was broken by the drab figure of a Red guard, his long overcoat flapping against his ankles, his drab helmet lighted up by the big red star of the revolution are everywhere, as much a part of the physical setting of Red Moscow as the drab buildings.

He was "no Bolshevik" he explained emphatically. Like the masses of all nations of all times, he ent his political creed according to the size of his bread ration. Bad bread means bad government, he reasoned.

"Have you a Soviet republic in the United States, too," he inquired eagerly.

He was surprised when I answered "no." He had thought every country had them.

The resuming petty commercial life following the government's recent decree permitting small trade, became increasingly evident as we neared the center of the city. Shop after shop, recently opened, broke the monotony of the long blocks of boarded-up window fronts. Apple-women were hawking over their stands. Near the Teat Place I saw an aged footblack, kneeling beside his customer.

We stopped in front of a hotel that seemed closed for the winter, the Savoy, one of the hostels reserved for foreigners. The manager of the hotel, an earnest young proletarian, who may have been a plumber or machine-shop worker, before, sent us up to the commander of the hotel. Each hostelry, being a government institution, has both a military and civil staff. The manager is in charge of the civilian department—bellboys, chambermaids, porters, etc. The commander is responsible for the protection of the house and directly responsible to the Soviet government.

Two or three Red guards stood near the booking desk. One of them was detailed to take us in charge. The commander informed us that before we could get a room we must go to the "Glavni Commandant," the chief commander, or billeting officer, who disposed of all quarters in the city, like the American billeting officer in the occupied towns on the Rhine.

The Glavni Commandant was courteous and accommodating, but explained that he had to have the formal permission of the foreign office. He also asked to see our "permits" (papers given foreigners in lieu of their passports which are not returned until you leave the country). He did, however, promise to hold room until the Foreign Office instructed him.

At the Foreign Office we were informed that the head of the "American department" (the guardian angel of all Americans in Moscow) would not be back until 11 that evening, but that we would surely be taken care of.

The foreign office is in the Metropole Hotel, one of Moscow's larger hotels. In it, the staff work, eat and sleep.

The broad Theater Place nearby, with the Grecian theater at one end and its gardens stretching two blocks through the center of the city, was another sea of refugees. Some peasants, with their packs over their shoulders, pilgrims from the ever-enlarging famine zone. Others, ordinary residents of Moscow, with here and there a middle-classer, a former "bourgeois," in his shabby business clothes. I was struck by the small number of middle class. All, proletarians, peasants, or middle class, were in old clothes. I have not yet seen a white collar in all Moscow.

We had dinner in a dainty little restaurant, just reopened, finished in blue. The manager, a young university student, of fine features, greeted us in perfect French. He said his family had been wealthy. They had fortunately been able to save enough to start this eating house when the new economic regime was inaugurated. He added, "We are very thankful to have a restaurant. It at least assures us of enough to eat."

I have never eaten better. The portions were heaping, and the cuisine was equal to Broadway's best. We had vegetable soup Russian style; mutton chops; roasted potatoes, in gravy; bread and butter; chocolate; French pastry, and a small peach. Our bill was seventy-five thousand roubles each.

There were only three other customers, all foreigners. The proprietor explained that they were obliged to charge such prices that none but foreigners, with foreign exchange, could afford to patronize them.

Before we left, a Red officer sat down at one of the tables. I have eaten at this restaurant several times since, and have never seen anyone but foreigners or Red officers.

The street outside was dimly lighted by a small electric lamp at the corner. The Theater Place, however, the region of the foreign office and certain other central sections of the city were as bright as the outlying business sections, say of Kansas City or Los Angeles.

At the foreign office, we were quizzed briefly by Comrade Weinstein, head of the American section, and informed that a double room was ready for us at the Savoy. The bellhop wore the long-flowing, shirt-coat of Russia, a loose garment gathered at the waist by a belt, and reaching down to the knees. After five minutes of bargaining, he agreed to carry our five suitcases up the four flights of stairs for ten thousand roubles.

A single blanket was thrown over the bed as bed-clothing. The bellhop entered with tea. He quickly bent over the mattress when I told him—not, as I thought—to see whether there really were insects, but simply to see what kind they were. The big red ones bit viciously, he explained; the gray ones were less savage, and a few kinds did not bite at all. They just crawled. Nearly all the hotels in Moscow have become infested in this way since they were closed. Insect powder, to be sprinkled over the mattress under the bed-clothing, and in little rings on the floor around each bedstead, is as necessary a part of a traveler's equipment in Russia as the toothbrush.

The bellhop promised to bring up a pail of hot water from the second floor in the morning, as the plumbing hadn't been repaired.

RENEWAL OF WAGE FIGHT LOOMING UP

Apparent When Seventy-five Western Railroads Ask Employees to Accept Reductions

CRISIS IS NOT EXPECTED

Chicago, Nov. 16—Renewed fight of railroads and their employees before the U. S. Railroad labor board over wages loomed today.

This followed action of seventy-five western roads in asking workers of all classes to accept wage reductions.

It is not believed that a crisis such as that of Oct. 30 when a strike was narrowly averted will be precipitated. This will be the procedure in the present case:

Railroad executives and representatives of unions will meet and bargain over wages. If they are unable to agree then the case is automatically thrown before the labor board.

The Labor Board is expected to hand down soon a decision on new working agreements.

The "policy meeting" of 600 officers of the engineers and firemen's brotherhoods was over today. Steps to be taken in the most recent demand for wage cuts were discussed.

Exceptional Opportunity For Conservative Investors

We have convinced some of the highest type of business and professional men in Rush County that the 8% First Preferred Stock now being offered by the Muncie Water Works Company of Muncie, Indiana, is a rare opportunity for investment. Far sighted investors know that in one year hence it will be impossible for them to invest safely at 8% net.

Shrewd business men realize when their money is invested in a business that has a monopoly of one of the four necessities of life the danger if loss is almost impossible when compared with the average investment.

We began serving Muncie with water when its population was about 4,000. Muncie now ranks among the leading manufacturing cities of the State with some 40,000 population. It isn't a secret, for everyone knows that nearly all lines of business have suffered a loss in the last two years. Many of our strongest corporations have passed dividends BUT I WANT TO IMPRESS UPON YOUR MIND THAT THE MUNCIE WATER WORKS COMPANY HAS RUN CONSTANTLY DAY AND NIGHT 365 DAYS PER YEAR FOR MORE THAN 36 YEARS HAS NEVER PASSED A DIVIDEND AND ITS INCOME HAS IN NO WAY BEEN AFFECTED BY DEPRESSION. Ordinary depressions that close up or halt other lines of business is never felt by the Muncie Water Works Company. Our income grows with increased population. Our income now is sufficient to enable us to borrow $250,000 and deposit every penny of it on open account and go right on paying 8% every ninety days indefinitely. In the face of these facts, wouldn't you like to be a partner in this business?

So you can readily see we do not need money for operating our present plant. During our 36 years of operation we have accumulated over $86,000 depreciation reserve now available for replacing any part of our plant that has served its usefulness.

We cannot sell stock at any time we desire, neither can we dictate what rate we shall charge for our water. We are subjected to a rigid investigation, by the Public Service Commission before we are allowed to issue and sell stock. The Public Service Commission allows us for rate making purposes only 7% of the total valuation of our holdings. Thus you will see it is impossible for us to create a big surplus and therefore when it becomes necessary for us to make extensions we must borrow the money.

Last year Muncie incorporated about 7,000 additional houses. We must extend our water mains into this new territory. The Public Service Commission has authorized us to issue and sell $250,000 of our $100 par value 8% accumulative first preferred stock and this money is to be used for making these extensions.

This stock is tax free to citizens of Indiana, non assessable, pays its dividends every ninety days; next dividend date December 15th, sold for cash $100.00 par on the partial payment plan, $5 cash and $5 per month per share. We allow 8% on payments as they are made. We do not charge interest on the money you owe us.

We will at your option negotiate the sale of any stock you own issued by the Muncie Water Works Company and give you back every cent you put in with all accrued interest up to the day we make the transfer. We can prove upon request our ability to render you this service, gratis.

Our General Manager of the Securities Department will be in Rushville and vicinity Thursday and Friday of this week, and will take up the matter in detail with anyone desiring further information. For appointment, address Muncie Water Works Company, care of Republican.
